The WEEK

By A. M. BRAYTON

"Far from our navies face away
On Dardanelles and Hellespont
Low all our pomp of yesterday
Is one with Nineveh and Tarshish."
—Rudyard Kipling.

GREAT BRITAIN served a ultimatum on Mustafa Kemal, giving him 48 hours to withdraw from a post in the neutral zone bordering the Dardanelles. Kemal's reply was the complete occupation of the neutral zone excepting only Chanak, occupied by British forces.

On Thursday the British cabinet held a council of war and decided upon the scope of what included possible war with Russia should the latter become an ally of the Turks.

On Friday, having taken into account the Turkish advance and entered a conference. Great Britain's reply was an order to General Harrington, British commander in the near east, to order the Turkish immediately evacuate the neutral zone.

During the week Mr. Hughes, American secretary of state, issued a statement to the powers in which he declared the United States "unequivocal agreement" with British demand that the Dardanelles, the sea of Marmora and the Bosphorus remain internationalized and on to the ships of all nations. To follow our Chinese policy of open door.

One American warship was sufficient to remove all Americans in Constantinople, but the covenant has dispatched twelve fast destroyers with supply ships. They are attempting a record race to Constantinople.

The Hearst newspapers, known for their anti-British attitude, nevertheless warning the American people that the fight impending, the near east is our fight, and to the death would be stupid, heartless to the situation as the first chance in an inevitable life and death struggle between oriental and occidental civilization.

The first result in such war would be the destruction of British power in India, Egypt and Mesopotamia.

It is pointed out that Germany and Austria, nations that fearfully drove back the Asiatic hordes are now on their backs. Russia, other buffer of European civilization, is considering an alliance with Turkey. Russia already has massed 4 divisions in Galicia. France, with an army of nearly 2,000,000, who have nothing to do with the fight and Italy has hastily retreated. England, whose manpower is sent from the scene by thousands of miles, is left alone to do battle. If one possible ally is the shattered Greek army, which is being reorganized for an effort to hold Thrace.

The Sultan of Turkey, doubted with a small guard in Constantinople, is said to have been deposed, to have resigned in favor of his nephew. The Turkish nationalist leader, Mustafa Kemal, is said to have been deposed, to have resigned in favor of his nephew.

King Constantine of Greece has fled the country. His brother, George, has been proclaimed king and a provisional government has been formed. Its first job butting the army again on a flying basis in an effort to hold Thrace against Turkish invaders.

Constantine was deposed by the allies because of pro-German theories. His wife is a Teuton. He is said to have stabbed his nephew because he lacked her fervor for the German cause.

Then came Venizelos who is a real statesman. He became the leader of the Greek nation and by his abili-ty won substantial gains for Greece in the Serres treaty. But, notwithstanding his achievements, he did not want the allies to dictate his government.

By his over ambitious military program, which met disaster, Constantine has lost practically everything. Venizelos won for Greece, now the Greeks want the old premier back, but he will not come. He will have to do with the Greek government as long as any member of the present dynasty is on the throne.

Prince George, son of the late king, has been proclaimed king of Yugoslavia. Militarist revolution is the job. Unlike the Greek revolution, that in Yugoslavia was a bloodless. George succeeds his brother, Alexander, second son of King Peter, as the country ruler. The Greek government in attempting to secure assistance from Yugoslavia is in present predicament.

The government's effort to bring about a new law with empowered, a committee of commerce commission, the cars to mint that are operating. A group of mine operators, presenting injunction proceedings, are preventing the interstate commerce commission from complying with the law on the ground that it is not constitutional. Present temporary law would result in tremendous

KEMALISTS RETREAT; AGREE TO CONFER

British Labor Leader Fights War In East

WIMBLEDON, England.—By the Associated Press.—The policy of the British government in the Near East was severely scored Saturday afternoon by Arthur Henderson, British labor leader, speaking at the opening of a new labor hall here. He declared that the latest step taken by the government demanding that the Turkish nationalists withdraw from the neutral zone, was not calculated to lessen the tension.

At any moment the British troops in the area of the neutral zone might find themselves under orders to expel the Turks and it was his opinion that it would precipitate a calamity as the dreadful in magnitude as the great war.

"We shall oppose by all means within our power the war that is now threatened," he concluded.

TORSO FLOATING IN SACK BARES MURDER MYSTERY

Police Think Body of Young Man Killed on Farm or in Stable

MINNEAPOLIS PROBES DEATH OF MESSENGER

Think Body May be that of Missing Express Man

DULUTH, Minn.—Murdered on a farm or in a stable, was the theory advanced by the police tonight after investigating the firing of the torso of a young man sewed in two coatings of rock-weighted sacks floating in the bay near the Duluth Boat club yesterday.

Tied With Harness

The fact that grain sacks were used and that they were tied with pieces of harness straps, as well as the wire adhering to the rocks, seemed to indicate the police department solution as to the place of the crime.

"C. A. Graves, chemist, examined the rocks," Warren E. Pugh, chief of police, said, "and two of them are granite boulders that can be picked up anywhere. The other three are blasted rock which he believes may have come off of some farm or worked land because of the nature of the rock and the soil adhering to it."

May Be Missing Express Clerk

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn.—Possibility that the victim of the sack murder at Duluth may be Walter L. Arnold, American railway express employee who disappeared from Minneapolis August 28, was being investigated Saturday by operatives of the company.

On the theory that Arnold might have been slain for money, the investigators are trying to trace his movements after he left Minneapolis.

WOMAN COLLAPSES IN SMOKE FUMES; RESCUED BY SON

Mrs. Alfred Mosher, 1631 Avon Street, in Fire When Lamp Overturns

Mrs. Alfred Mosher, 1631 Avon street, was partially overcome by smoke and rescued by her son, Charles Mosher, Saturday evening in a fire which caused slight damage to her home.

The fire started when a lamp carried by Mrs. Mosher to her bedroom tipped over, falling to the floor and starting the fire. Mrs. Mosher tried to put it out, and succumbed to the fumes. Her son, who lives next door, heard her calls and saw the flames. He came at once and carried his mother out. Returning, he fought the flames and the fire was extinguished by the time the city department arrived.

Only minor damage was done by the fire.

G. A. R. VET TO MARRY

DES MOINES, Ia.—Charles E. Applebaum, 83, of Roaring Springs, Pa., a civil war veteran who came here for the G. A. R. encampment, has obtained a marriage license to wed Mildred Spurgeon, 66, of Oakland, Calif. Applebaum had not seen his bride to be in seven years. The meeting here was arranged by correspondence.

BOY BORN IN CAR PARKED IN DULUTH; NAME TO BE HENRY?

DULUTH, Minn.—They named him Henry. The youngster was born in a Ford car Saturday night, parked in front of the Selwood building on Superior street. The main thoroughfare was thronged. Crowds bearing screams rushed to the scene.

"An accident!" some shouted, but it wasn't.

"It's a boy," said the father. He cranked the car and drove off and not a person caught the license number.

RUSH GREEK DEPORTATION AS TURKS RUN EDGE OF SMYRNA BAY; 140,000 THERE

SMYRNA BAY, Thursday, Sept. 28.—By the Associated Press.—Seventeen steamers, placed at the disposal of the American relief committee by the Greek authorities, are here endeavoring to remove 140,000 refugees by September 30, the time limit fixed by the Turks.

The shore is crowded with refugees who are encircled by Turkish soldiers. All refugees are searched and robbed by the Turkish soldiers, who only allow the aged and children to pass.

Seven corpses are lying on the pier, the remains of persons struck by the butt ends of rifles. The embarkation of the refugees is being humanely conducted by American and British sailors alone. A large French battleship is anchored in the bay, but has offered no assistance.

The large American tobacco stores located here are still burning. The Armenians claim that nearly the whole of their population has been massacred.

Kemal Blames Greeks to Pope

ROME.—By the Associated Press.—Pope Plus, who recently sent a message to Mustafa Kemal Pasha urging that the Turkish commander adopt every possible measure to avoid further bloodshed, Saturday received a message from Kemal, couched in very deferential terms in which the nationalist leader attributed all responsibility for the bloodshed to the Greeks.

As Kemal had fixed Saturday as the time limit for the evacuation of Smyrna by the Christians, his holiness telegraphed him asking that the order be countermanded and declaring all the Christians there were under the care of Monsignor Valpi, archbishop of Smyrna.

REPORTS VARY AS TO EFFECT OF WALK-OUT

Expected Several Days Will Elapse Before Tieup is Complete

CHICAGO, Ill.—With the eight-hour day as the goal, a strike order which union leaders declared would affect some 5,000 seamen on Great Lakes freighters went into effect Saturday night.

At the headquarters of the sailors' union of the Great Lakes it was announced that eleventh hour efforts to get the lake carriers' association to reopen negotiations on the abolishment of the present twelve hour day had failed.

Nevertheless, the belief was expressed at union headquarters that the shorter day would be granted on many of the four hundred vessels operated by the lake carriers' association, the biggest strike being expected with the vessels of the Pittsburgh Steamship company, said to be a United States Steel corporation subsidiary.

Steamship officials said that they expected to operate, as usual and indicated that they anticipated no interruption of the flow of coal into the northwest or of iron ore to the southward. Union officials would make no prediction regarding the effectiveness of the strike, but said that its full effect might not be apparent for a week, or until the ships now in transit reached their destinations.

Reports Vary in Duluth

DULUTH, Minn.—That many men were leaving their ships in Duluth and Superior ports as the result of the strike called by the Sailors' Union of the Great Lakes, protesting for an eight-hour day and three-watch shift, was the statement made Saturday night by C. M. Goshorn, Duluth agent for the union.

"Quite a few men have been leaving their boats all day and continued to do so all night," he stated. "There probably will be quitting as boats keep arriving in Duluth for the next few days."

There were about fifteen ships in Duluth and Superior Saturday night, and Mr. Goshorn said that a great percentage of these would very likely lose the larger part of their crews. L. K. Bains of the Lake Carriers' association here, said that no unusual number of men were leaving the ships as far as he could ascertain.

"Always when a war comes to the head of the Lakes there are a few employees that quit, but the number is nothing more than usual," he said. "We are noticing nothing unusual in our business, and are going right ahead as we always have."

THINK WHEAT FIELD FIRED IN MALICE

BISMARCK, N. D.—Belief that fire which destroyed a setting of headed wheat on the farm of John Franzen, living ten miles southwest of Carson, was deliberately set, was expressed here Saturday by State Fire Marshal R. A. Middaugh. About 500 bushels of wheat was destroyed. Investigation showed, according to the fire marshal, that a wire fence had been cut, a horse ridden to the stacks and out of the field again at the same spot. The track led toward a neighbor's house.

POPE SEES ST. CLOUD BISHOP
ROME.—Pope Plus received Monsignor Joseph F. Busch, bishop of St. Cloud, Minn., in private audience Saturday. His holiness conversed lengthily about the affairs of the bishop's diocese and showed the greatest interest in the welfare of American Catholics.

NORTH MINNESOTA SETTLEMENT BURNS IN FOREST FIRES

Town of Zin Disappears But Inhabitants Escape; Highway is Closed to Travel

AIR SCOUTS REPORT SITUATION CRITICAL

High Wind Sends Flames Roaring at Top Speed

DULUTH, Minn.—The forest fires of the north country became more menacing Saturday night with a brace in the wind to twenty-five miles, completely destroying the settlement of Zin and making both sides of the Vermillion trail impassable, due to the roaring furnace and dense smoke.

Orders were issued by Adjutant General Walter F. Rhinow after making a survey of the fire zone that tourists keep off the road. He reported the tinder-box of the woods worse than ever.

Settlers Escape

No loss of life was reported at Zin, the settlers having had sufficient warning. The property damage, however, was complete, not a vestige of a building being left in the community.

Adjutant General Rhinow was unable to reach Zin on account of the dense smoke, but got near enough to see the flames of what is believed to have been the buildings of the settlement on the Duluth, Missabe and Northern railroad.

The population of the settlement is estimated at approximately fifty, all of whom are believed to have escaped. The situation was reported as extremely critical by Captain Trevor Williams after a three hour flight covering more than twenty-five miles. The flight is the longest since the return of the 100th aero squadron to the head of the lakes.

Fire 7 Miles Long

ST. PAUL, Minn.—The forest fire situation in Northern Minnesota, especially in the vicinity of White Face, is said to be "exceedingly serious," according to reports received at the office of W. T. Cox, state forester, from the fire zone.

The fires in the White Face section, the reports say, are burning on a seven mile front. In the vicinity of Markham, the fires have gone into the best stands of timber in the state.

Three hundred fighters are combating the blazes at White Face, around Comstock Lake.

The Vermillion road, in the fire zone, has been closed, the reports stated. This was done because of the heavy pall of smoke overhanging the road, which might result in serious traffic accidents.

Try to Save Towns

DULUTH, Minn.—With the hope of placing under control the larger forest fires in the vicinity of White Face, Fairbanks and Sax abandoned, forestry officials and rangers have diverted their efforts to attempts to change the path of the flames from the villages to burnt-over areas.

A heavy pall of smoke hangs over the entire fire area, and because of the density of the smoke, a stretch of the Vermillion trail, from Shields to Markham, has been temporarily closed.

"There will be times of the day during which traffic will be allowed to traverse this stretch of road," G. M. Conzet, forestry field administration chief, said tonight.

Many small fires, which spread rapidly because of the dry condition, are being reported continuously. Before men can be dispatched to the scene of small fires, the flames cover large territories, and it is next to impossible to place them under complete control. Mr. Conzet stated, however, smaller fires, discovered in time by forest rangers, are being extinguished.

Hunt For Families

A. B. Gibbs, forest ranger, and William Byrne left tonight for Comstock Lake, from where they will travel to Shields, in attempts to bring out families of two or three settlers stranded about eight miles west of the Vermillion trail. The settlers are blocked by the fires burning east of White Face. That the settlers are in no danger of death is the opinion of Conzet.

While the White Face fire was being held on the south, the conflagration has worked around Long Lake. Fire-fighters are back firing in an attempt to divert the course of this flame into cut over territory.

Wawaina, reported Friday night to be in danger of destruction has been saved by a favorable wind.

MURDER JURY SPLITS

VIRGINIA, Minn.—The jury in the case of Steve Chuks, who has been on trial here for the past week on the charge of first degree murder, were unable to agree and were discharged by Judge Edward Freeman after sixteen hours' deliberation.

LEAVE WHOLE COAST OF NARROWS IN HANDS OF BRITISH FORCES

Leader Reported to Have Been Won Over to Peace Meeting by French Envoy; Situation Still Grave

CONSTANTINOPLE, Sept. 30.—By the Associated Press.—The Kemalists have evacuated Eren Keui, and the British now control the whole east coast of the Narrows from Chanak to Karabournou. The latter point possesses an excellent quay, enabling warships to anchor in deep water.

CONSTANTINOPLE.—By the Associated Press.—The mission of M. Franklin-Bouillon to Smyrna, where he went to confer with Kemal Pasha, has been successful, according to announcement by the French officials. He is coming to Constantinople Sunday by the cruiser Metz, probably to consult with General Harrington, commander-in-chief of the British forces.

In replying to the latest note of the nationalist leader, General Harrington requested him to direct the Turkish commander in the neutral zone to meet the British commander for the purpose of drawing a new line between the British and Turkish forces, which would be without prejudice to the neutral zone.

Kemal to Confer

Hamid Bey, the Ankara representative here, announced Saturday evening that Kemal would confer with all the allied generals at Mudania early next week. He declared, however, that the nationalists would remain in the neutral zone pending settlement at Mudania of the controversy.

The British army, now considerably reinforced, is in high spirits in the face of the Turkish deliberate intrusion into their private precincts of Chanak. A high authority likened the situation to a family which was obliged to tolerate an unwelcome guest.

General Harrington suggested the establishment of a provisional line, which insure avoidance of conflict pending a conference between the Turkish and allied generals, and in his note to Kemal Pasha, added: "I thank you for your assurance that you wish to avoid aggression and incidents."

Kemal's precipitate action in leaving for Ankara after Gen. Harrington had suggested a friendly conference at Mudania has caused surprise in British diplomatic circles.

Kemal's Reply

Mustapha Kemal Pasha's reply to the second request from General Harrington for the withdrawal of Kemal troops from the Canak zone read as follows:

"I have the honor to acknowledge the receipt of your telegram dated September 27.

"You can easily appreciate the extent to which we have been moved by the atrocities and acts of violence which continue in Thrace.

"On the other hand, with regard to the sending away of the Greek fleet from Constantinople which will influence the military situation, we desire proof that it will not be allowed to return.

"We would also like to hope that you will give up the measures of extraordinary coercion adopted by the forces of occupation towards the inhabitants of Constantinople, as well as the prohibition upon shipping to all parts in Anatolia.

"So far as the proposed acts of destruction in Constantinople, as well as in Chagab, are concerned, it is illegal to destroy property, while the arms and ammunition also belong to us.

Troops to be Careful

"Notwithstanding the unilateral decisions taken without our consent, as a new measure, in order to avoid misunderstandings we have given orders to the officer commanding our troops in the localities wherein they now are and to avoid giving rise to incidents.

"Should you be prepared to withdraw your forces from the Asiatic coast, in the same way as the French and the Italians, we are prepared to give forthwith orders to our forces which are on the coast of the straits to withdraw slightly and to content themselves with re-establishing the civil administration and the police.

"Although I am returning to Ankara in order to get into touch with the assembly, I will yet take advantage of the first occasion which presents itself, in order to have the honor of meeting you."

Cabinet in Night Session

LONDON.—By The Associated Press. The British cabinet held a two hour council beginning at 11 o'clock Saturday night, and then adjourned until ten o'clock Sunday morning, after many hours of intensive study of the situation through-out Saturday.

It was announced that there was no material change in the Near East situation, but this was merely the official way of putting it.

Direct word has come from Constantinople in The Associated Press dispatches that M. Franklin-Bouillon's mission to Smyrna had been successful, which means that Kemal Pasha is ready to consider a peaceful way out of the present difficulties. Further announcement was made at Constantinople that Kemal would confer with the allied generals early in the week and that Kemal has been requested by General Harrington, the

PAGE 7 BROWNSVILLE IS BECOMING BETTER BECOMING CENTER

Down River Village Takes on More Attractive Appearance With Improvements

Nestled on the bluffs and in a little valley which runs back from the river, Brownsville, Minn., with its church spires and vari-colored houses and stores standing out against a green background, presents one of the most attractive pictures found on the river. At this time of the year when the trees and other bluffside foliage are beginning to turn to scarlet and brown, the village is especially beautiful viewed from the river.

Brownsville has greatly improved in appearance since the fire which destroyed several of the old landmarks on the river front two years ago. New store buildings, several new homes and other improvements border the main street which runs along the foot of the bluff and back into the valley where the main portion of the village lies. Imposing church and school buildings, a bank, garage and stores which carry large stocks of merchandise have developed Brownsville greatly during the past few years. A spirit of civic pride is evident among the residents, and the village is becoming a more important trading center each year.

Brownsville was laid out in the early 50's. At the first election in Houston county in the spring of 1851 at Brownsville, 126 votes were cast, and at a dance in the evening, hardly a single set of "dancable" couples could be got together.

There were seven town sites platted in the county in the year 1855, as follows: Brownsville, Hokah, Houston, Caledonia and Spring Grove, Watertown and Mantou. Watertown was in Winnebago and Mantou was in La Crosse. Lots in Brownsville brought from $100 to $800.

The Root River Steam Boat Co. was organized in 1855. Ole Knutson, President; C. W. Jenks Treasurer; and E. A. Goodell, Secretary.

Near the close of the year 1855, the Brown Bros., of Brownsville got their saw-mill in operation.

On the 5th of April, 1856, Capt. J. H. McKinney's house at Brownsville was destroyed by fire. Loss $1000.

The first circus in the county was at Brownsville on June 17, 1856.

In the year 1857 the first steam boat was built on the Root River.

Mr. Andrews operated the first saw-mill in the county at his place, in Wild Cat Valley in the year 1755.

The first brewery was started in the same year by the Knobloch Bros. at Brownsville.

Work was also commenced during 1858 on the Root River Valley Railroad.

BOW ON LEFT SIDE

The reason why the bow on a man's hat is placed on the left side is because in the days when men wore long, sweeping plumes in their hats and swords at their belts it was important that the plumes should not in any way interfere with the free use of the sword arm. So, as most men were right-handed, they wore their plumes on the left side of their hats. In the plainer fashions of today the custom still survives in the simple bow of the hatterband. In ultra-fashionable styles, of course, the bow is placed at the back of the hat.

NEW CLOTHES FOR SCHOOL

When the regulation Peter Tom begins to pull on the spirits and all usual clothes become a snare and a delusion it is time for the modern young woman to speak to her mother seriously about new dresses.

Then she finds such practical little dresses as these to lift the monotony of lessons. They are as sensible as need be and as attractive as one could desire.

Wool, jersey, serge, flannel are the materials used for them and they may be trimmed with colored wool embroidery, bright silk pipings or yokes or appliqued designs.

PUT ASIDE PLAN FOR MODEL RURAL SCHOOL AT STEVENS POINT

MADISON, Wis.—The state board of education on Thursday postponed approval of a project to erect a $16,000 model rural school on the campus of the Stevens Point Normal. Objections were raised on the grounds that the proposed school was too expensive and that other plans could be devised for giving the practice teachers the desired rural school experience. The plan will not be considered again until the last of October.

BOY SCOUTS IS EXCLUSIVE NAME FOR ORGANIZATION

Business Firms Not Permitted to Use Word Scout in Ad- vertising their Wares

By an act of the senate of the United States of America a charter was given the Boy Scouts of America on June 15, 1916, which included among many things, the sole and exclusive right to the use of the word Boy Scouts and all emblems and badges, words and phrases used by the Boy Scouts of America in carrying out this program.

Because of the national scope of scouting and the reputation that the Boy Scouts organization has won for itself, many concerns unconsciously have adopted the word Scout and Boy Scout for certain brands of their products because of the association with the famous organization. Boy Scouts and it has become the duty of every Scout official in the entire field to notify the national headquarters concerning the apparently improper use of Scout titles appearing in their localities and in answer to the communications of national headquarters in their splendid appeal. Acknowledgements have been made to the national Scout organization of their full moral and legal right to all their titles. For instance:

Richmond Chase Co., Dried Fruits, Canned Fruits, San Jose, Calif.

May 15, 1922.

We are in receipt of your communication calling our attention to the use of the "Scout" brand which we have used on tomatoes. We have no voice in any act of congress. You need have no further concern about our continuing the use of this brand.

Strohmeier & Arpe Co., New York City.

In the future we shall eliminate from our labels ("Honey Boy Scout Sardines"), the word "Scout," and we shall also replace the picture of the Boy Scout with a picture of a different character.

Excelsior Shoe Company, Portsmouth, Ohio.

July 8, 1922.

and we do hereby agree to admit—in principle—that you are entitled to control of the physical comforts of the Boy Scouts standard and value of goods and protect them physically and morally in the development into future citizens of our country.

We have already started . . . to gradually eliminate the name "Boy Scouts" as used in our correspondence and advertising.

Steinwender Stoffregen Coffee Co., St. Louis, Mo.

Aug. 9, 1921.

We do not want to do so splendid an organization as the Boy Scouts of America an injustice, as you say we are doing, by turning out coffee under "Boy Scout" brand, and regardless of our rights to the name we would prefer to adopt another name for this grade of coffee.

Lyndon & Hanford Co., Advertising, Rochester, N. Y.

Permit us to offer an apology in behalf of our client and ourselves and also to assure you of our innocence of the misuse of the protected name "Scout."

These testimonies show that the knowledge of Scouting and its principles has permeated the heart of business. The local Scout office has had the experience of having two boys presented to a business man for employment Saturdays and before and after school. One was a boy of fourteen, a second class Scout; the other was a boy of seventeen who attended school half days. The business gave this reason for hiring the Scout: "The Scout has ideas to work for besides a salary." The seventeen year old boy probably would have one eye on the clock and the other on the calendar for the Saturday afternoon pay check.

HAT WASN'T COMPLETE

A Wisconsin editor was visiting in Chicago and decided to buy a new Panama hat. Going into a store, he asked the price of one that looked good to him. The clerk replied: "Fifteen dollars."

"Where are the holes?" the editor asked.

The clerk appeared bewildered for a moment, but managed to ask: "What holes?"

The editor replied: "The holes for the ears of the ass that would pay $15 for a hat like that."—Pathfinder.

BANTA IS WITH EIGHT FAMOUS VICTOR ARTISTS

Remember the clever young pianist, Frank Banta by name, who appeared here last season as a member of the Eight Famous Victor Artists? Well, the eight artists are booked for a return date at the La Crosse theater on Thursday evening, October 5th, and Banta will be with them.

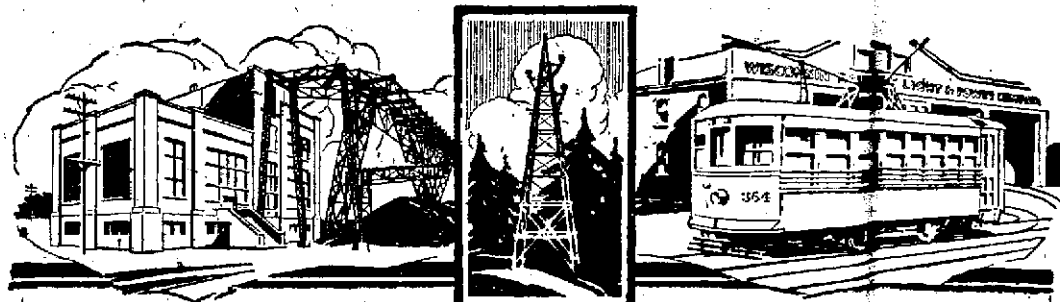

On his previous appearance Banta charmed his local audience. They marveled that one so young could do the things that he does on a piano. Not alone as a soloist does he stand out but as an accompanist it would be hard to find his equal. And accompanying an artist is not the easiest thing in the world. In the first place the pianist must follow every mood of the star. If the singer decides to speed up the tempo, the accompanist must follow. And at all times his work must be subordinated to that of the artists, never too loud, nor yet too soft, never too fast yet he must not lag. Accompanying is an art in itself, one that requires a great deal of careful study.

and Banta has given the "Required amount of study."

As accompanist Banta will assist the following artists during the evening: Henry Burr, tenor; Billy Murray, tenor-comedian; Albert Campbell, tenor; Frank Croton, bass; John Meyer, baritone; Monroe Silver, moulologist and Rudy Wiedt, saxophonist. In addition the Sterling Trio and the Peerless Quartet are again on the program, which, it is announced is entirely changed from that given last season.

In 1916 a proclamation was issued in England prohibiting the use of coal, as injurious to health.

Cross Car Tracks Carefully

Recently an auto running at a high rate of speed struck one of our street cars at a crossing.

The street car was not damaged but the auto was wrecked and the driver suffered severe injuries.

All the pain and suffering and damage to auto could have been avoided by approaching the car tracks with auto under control and looking for approaching street cars before crossing.

We are recalling the accident with the hope that it may save some other driver from a similar situation.

A few seconds at each crossing is all that is required to insure you against accidents.

"GOOD PROVIDER" OF THE BIRDS

The robin is the good provider of the birds although not entirely intentionally. The robin has the trick of locating the worms in their holes in the ground and knows how to get them out. A nature-lover of Chestnut Hill, Pa., watched one of these birds pull a fat worm from the ground recently and just as it had completed its task satisfactorily and was about to devour the morsel, a purple grackle (sometimes called blackbird) flew down from a tree and appropriated the squirming worm. The robin gave a cry of alarm and three others rolled around him, but they did not undertake to interfere with the grackle. The robin is not much of a fighter and sparrows will often rob them of worms.

GRAVEL MINING IS PROFITABLE ENTERPRISE NOW

Demand for Product for Road Building Brings Thousands to Gravel Bed Owners

Has anyone around La Crosse a gravel bed which is not working? If so, he can make more money out of his land than the richest farm land can produce.

The great demand for gravel for concrete work on roads and for road surfaces is turning some soil areas in Wisconsin which have been considered worthless land into profits. Where crops would not grow for the farmer gravel is being taken out to build rural highways for the farmers' use.

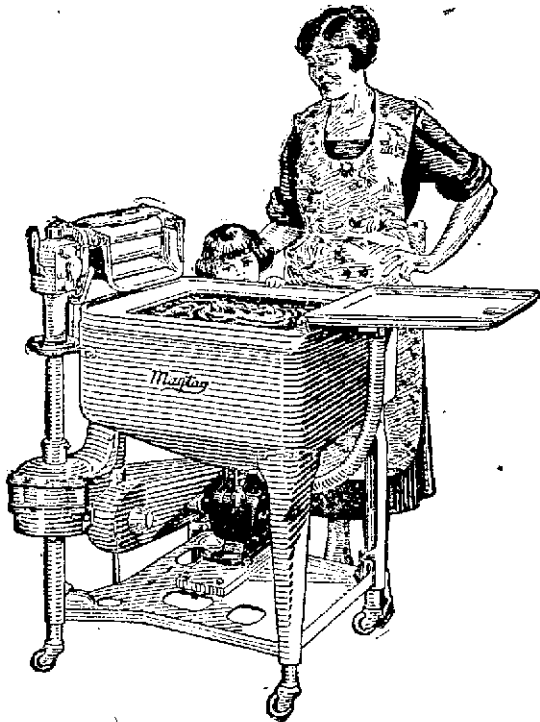

An instance is the hundred acre stretch of "poor land" on the bank of the Mississippi river at Prairie du Chien. Here the gravel is about forty feet deep, constituting a tremendous road building resource. The bed has been opened up this summer and at present cars daily are loading for shipment to points in southwestern Wisconsin and across the river into Clayton county, Iowa.

The bed is river bottomland. It was found that as gravel was taken out water constantly seeped in. The consequence is that a special pumping device had to be contrived and installed in the pit. A pump house was built and two powerful electric pumps mounted in it. These pump up gravel and water together, and force the combination through a large pipe up to bins elevated above the railroad tracks. Cars are sidetracked beneath the bins.

A trough extends out from the top of the bins over and beyond the cars. As gravel and water run into the bins, the gravel settles to the bottom and the water runs off through the trough. A runway from the bottom of the bins permits the gravel, free of water, to run into the cars.

It is estimated that the one hundred acre gravel bed which was bought for $75 an acre is worth something like a million dollars.

The gravel beds at La Crosse have yielded many thousands of dollars to their owners and are now being worked to their capacity to furnish road surfacing material.

THE MAYTAG WASHING MACHINE PEOPLE did not wire us congratulations on our success in the past four weeks of intensified selling campaign, promoting the sale of their machine, although we thought it most successful—because we have never sold so many in so short a time and never before had the public shown so much interest in any single piece of merchandise.

The following is a letter we received from the factory:

"GENTLEMEN, get it into your head that you are selling service, not washing machines. Economy demands that every home should have a washing machine and every woman in every home wants one. Or rather she wants service. Such service as only the Maytag can give her.

"Why, gentlemen, every good woman loves her home and she is anxious to give more attention to home atmosphere.

"The stuff that makes good men and women for your own future service. Don't put yourself on the back. You haven't done much. Why, you have only scratched the surface. You have got the best thing out even if we do say it, who shouldn't. Everyone you sell will make you a friend, not because it was a Maytag Washing Machine, but because of the service you have rendered."

VETERAN TRAIN DISPATCHER GOES ON PENSION LIST

Marking the end of the thirty-fifth year of continuous service with the railroad, L. P. Raley, 121 South Eighth street, train dispatcher at the Burlington offices here, will retire today and be placed on the pension list.

Mr. Raley came to La Crosse from Paris, Ky., where he served with the Kentucky Central railroad on October 1, 1887, and has continued as a train dispatcher here continuously since. For thirty years he has occupied the same desk in the local office. For many years Mr. Raley has been first vice dispatcher of the company here, working from 8 in the morning to 4 in the afternoon.

Mr. Raley yesterday gratefully acknowledged receipt of two handsome presents from co-workers. One was a costly traveling bag, presented by day operators with whom Mr. Raley has worked. Men in the office presented Mr. and Mrs. Raley with a beautiful electric table lamp.

Mr. and Mrs. Raley are planning to leave in a day or two for Fulton, Ill., where they will reside in the future. Mrs. Raley was born in Fulton and spent her girlhood there.

Mr. and Mrs. Raley will carry with them to their new home the best wishes of a wide circle of friends here.

GAME FISH ARE PLANTED IN NEW LAKE AT HOKAH

According to the Hokah Chief, 14,255 game fish have been planted in Lake Como, recently restored with the completion of a new dam and one destined to become a popular summer resort. The fisheries car Glenwood conveyed the cans of fish to Hokah last Tuesday. The fish planted in the lake included 5,480 sunfish, 600 Oswego bass, 5,775 crappies, 2,300 catfish and 100 yellow perch. Catching of these fish will be prohibited next year.

SALTS FINE FOR AGING KIDNEYS

Eating too much meat may clog kidneys, then the back hurts.

Most folks forget that the kidneys, like the bowels, get sluggish and clogged and need a flushing occasionally. Also we have backache and dull misery in the kidney region, severe headaches, rheumatic twinges, torpid liver, acid stomach, sleeplessness and all sorts of bladder disorders.

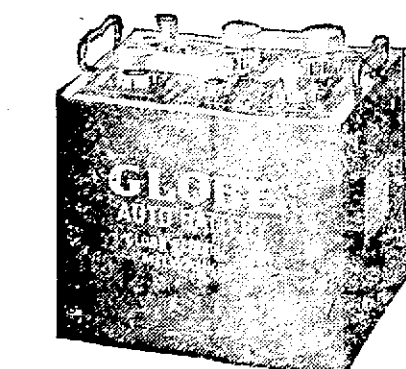

You simply must keep your kidneys active and clean, and the moment you feel an ache or pain in the kidney region, get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any good drug store here, take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salt is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and is harmless to flush clogged kidneys and stimulate them to normal activity. It also helps neutralize the acids in the urine so it no longer irritates, thus helping to relieve bladder disorders.

Jad Salts is harmless, inexpensive; makes a delightful effervescent lithia water drink, which everybody should take now and then to help keep their kidneys clean.

A well-known local druggist says he sells lots of Jad Salts to folks who believe in trying to correct kidney trouble while it is only trouble.

RELICS ARE GIVEN NORMAL SCHOOL BY COLONEL FOWLER

German Helmets and Other Curios Added to the Historical Collection

The Normal school is the fortunate recipient of gifts made by Col. F. H. Fowler within the last few days. In this way the collection of relics from the world war is enlarged by the addition of three German helmets, and a shell case with the inscription "Chateau Thierry" hampered in relief on its side.

The German helmets are of three different types, all in perfect condition. Two are officers' helmets, one of dull finished dark steel, the other of patent leather with the large gilt ornament in front carrying the inscription "Mit Gott für Koenig und Vaterland." Each has the well-known spear point surmounting the crown; this is not entirely decorative, as its base serves as ventilator. The third helmet is that of a common soldier. It is painted with dull colors in irregular patterns—a form of camouflage.

The Biology department's collection has received, through Col. Fowler's generosity, a genuine "windfall," as Mr. Frazee termed it, in the form of a stuffed and mounted white owl—a rare specimen. The one has been in the possession of Col. Fowler for a number of years. He acquired it from the taxidermist, Mr. Boehm. It was the collection of Mr. Boehm which was purchased some years ago and is now in the possession of the public library.

A piece of lava from a Hawaiian volcano is appreciated by the geography department of the Normal school.

DEMOCRATS SEEK TO BREAK G. O. P. HOLD ON KANSAS

Candidates in Strenuous Campaign to Break Solid Ranks of Republican Congressmen

TOPEKA, Kan.—Democrats of Kansas are going into the fall campaign with hopes more firmly founded, they say, than at any time in the past six years. They are putting particular stress on the congressional campaigns in all the eight Kansas districts in the anticipation that the Kansas representatives in the lower house of congress next year no longer will be a solid republican delegation.

There is no election of a U. S. senator in Kansas this year. Both senators—Charles Curtis and Arthur Capper—however, also are republicans. The last democratic governor in Kansas was George H. Hodges, 1913-1915.

MNINESOTA WINS HALF MILLION IN TAXES FROM G. N.

But Court Refuses to Make Railroad Pay Penalty in Addition

ST. PAUL, Minn.—The state of Minnesota Saturday was awarded a judgment of $479,586.58 against the Great Northern railway, by Judge Hugo Heft, in district court here. The state contended this amount to be due on alleged incorrect returns on gross earnings between 1903 and 1912. The litigation has been pending eight years.

The company deducted $13,448,703.62 from its gross earnings, claiming to have paid this amount to the Allouez dock company for the handling of ore shipments.

Judge Haft denied the suit of the state for penalties with interest totalling approximately $800,000 for the nonpayment of the taxes, stating that the taxes as originally imposed were unjust and that the railroad was justified in protesting payment.

A stay of thirty days was granted pending possible appeal by the railroad company.

GOOD ORDER KEPT BY REVOLUTIONARY FORCES IN ATHENS

ATHENS.—By The Associated Press.—The prefect of police has issued orders to all residents to bring any arms in their possession to the police depot, all violators of this order will be severely punished.

The manner in which the revolutionary committee has insured order in Athens has excited the admiration of all citizens and foreigners. One of the first acts of the new ministry will be to send fraternal greetings to the Greek patriots at Constantinople, Archbishops, Metropolitans, Monks, who was recognized by the Constantinian government.

loss to the people of the United States, as it would deprive them of government protection. Should the injunction continue in force while the case was taken through the court of appeals and the supreme court of the United States, the bulk of the winter coal would have been sold at profiteer prices.

Mrs. Fifi Stillman won her divorce against her renegade multi-millionaire husband, James A. Stillman. The latter's suit for divorce is lost. The court declares Guy Stillman a legitimate child, and entitled to share in the $60,000,000 trust fund of his grandfather. The evidence in this notorious case was a character to indicate that the decision will have popular approval.

Battling Siki, Senegalese pug, who knocked out Georges Carpentier during the week, has called Tex Rickard, terms upon which he will meet any light heavy weight in America. This fight planned is a stepping stone to Jack Dempsey, at present world champion. Siki is a savage. He can fight, but his managers are obliged to give him whiskey to keep his nerve up. That kind of man will be poor material to meet the level headed Dempsey. Siki was floored by Carpentier three times before Siki in a wild rush, landed the blow which broke the Frenchman. Carpentier master boxer landed on Dempsey almost at will but was unable to do him serious injury. Possibly there will be a great newspaper fight. The coming of this wild man gives the press agents a wonderful chance. But it is improbable that the fight will amount to much, if there is one. Chances are that Wills, the New Orleans negro will be Siki's first opponent and stop the Senegalese championship aspirations.

Ex-kaiser Wilhelm has declined to break off his engagement with Princess Hermine. German junkers object to the match because they still hope for the recall of the Kaiser to power. Ex-kaiser Wilhelm stands out on his property to the attractive Princess. For Chaps. he has had enough of the king business and prefers domestic warfare.

John Callahan was elected state superintendent less than a year ago. Following the death of Mr. Harvey he has been considered as the latter's successor to head Stout institute. It is an attractive post and one that appeals to Superintendent Callahan. At their state convention the county and district superintendents of Wisconsin petitioned Mr. Callahan to retain his post as superintendent. The incident must have been appreciated by the state superintendent and no doubt it is a valuable endorsement.

WISCONSIN AT WASHINGTON

By Betty Pruett Farrington

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Wisconsin veterans of the World War suffering from neuro-psychiatric disease will soon be out of "contract" hospitals and in quarters provided for them by the state, according to information given officials of the Veterans' Bureau by Dr. W. F. Lorenz, of Madison. The Wisconsin physician came to Washington to attend the conference of officials in charge of disabled veterans called by Colonel Charles R. Forbes, director of the Veterans' Bureau.

According to the latest information of the Veterans' Bureau, there are about 139 of such cases in "contract" hospitals in Wisconsin, about 110 of whom have been cared for at the state institution at Mendota. The new hospital, which is nearing completion at Farwell's point about five miles from Madison, will be known as the Wisconsin Memorial Hospital and will have a capacity of about 250.

Dr. Lorenz will have charge of the new hospital which is being put up at a cost of $250,000 to the state. It will be maintained by the federal government and only mental patients from the state who served in the World War will be admitted.

The second annual conference of district managers and officers in charge of the medical and rehabilitation work of the Veterans' Bureau brought its deliberations to a conclusion last week. The state of Wisconsin was represented by Charles W. Spafford, who is manager of the eighth district, comprising Michigan, Wisconsin and Illinois, with headquarters at Chicago. Dr. William C. Kendall, district medical officer, and C. E. Hostetler, chief of the rehabilitation division.

Lorenz One of Leaders

Dr. Lorenz was brought here as one of a committee of "distinguished specialists", to use the Veterans' Bureau expression, from all parts of the country to advise officials here as such changes in the procedure of the bureau in dealing with its patients as may be necessary and advisable.

On Wednesday he was a member of a small delegation which went to the White House to outline to President Harding a program for the care of neuro-psychiatric patients under the Veterans' Bureau. The committee consisted of A. A. Sorenson, who has charge of the American Legion's rehabilitation work; Dr. W. T. Salmon, of New York City, and Dr. Lorenz.

Following the conference Brigadier General C. E. Sawyer, chief coordinator of the federal hospitalization board and the president's personal physician, approved the program which contemplates the removal of the veterans suffering from neuro-psychiatric disease from contract hospitals to government owned or government operated hospitals, such as the Wisconsin Memorial hospital, as soon as possible. General Sawyer has previously been under attack by the officials of the American Legion for his attitude on this question.

One Badger P. M. Postmaster General Work's appeal for a large attendance at the conference of postmasters in Washington last week brought only one from Wisconsin. He is William H. Zuehlke, postmaster of Appleton. The association of postmasters has about 4,000 members, but only about 250 came to the conference.

It was devoted to a discussion of ways and means to improve the postal service. The postmaster general opened the conference with an appeal to the postmasters to employ such methods as would be of greatest service to local business concerns as well as the people of their communities generally.

Praise Eau Claire Act. The prohibition unit has welcomed with enthusiasm the act of the city of Eau Claire in passing an ordinance bringing liquor law violations within the jurisdiction of the municipal courts since it will not be necessary to await trial or sentence by the circuit court.

"The city benefits by the fines collected through the activities of its police department," said an official announcement, "since the manufacture, sale and possession of illicit liquor has been made a violation by city ordinance."

Officials look to such co-operation by municipalities to bring about strict enforcement of the Volstead act.

sional Record, which has just come off the press, Representative James A. Frear of Hudson, sharply criticizes President Harding for his veto of the soldiers' bonus bill and his approval of the Fordney-McCumber tariff bill. Citing the statement that republican leaders are counting upon a majority of only between 20 to 30 members in the next house, he said that if that estimate be verified, it will be largely because of the blind, blundering attitude of those who today are the president's closest advisers.

"The house republican membership," he continued, "will suffer for mistakes made higher up, for the president has been badly advised. No one familiar with the arguments and publicity methods of Secretary Mellon in relation to the bonus bill will believe President Harding wrote the major part of the amazing veto message which denies to nearly 4,000,000 ex-service men just recognition of their sacrifice. No one possessed of ordinary political acumen will believe the extraordinary tariff bill is satisfactory to the executive."

In attacking Mr. Mellon for his opposition to the soldiers' bonus bill, Mr. Frear stated that the secretary of the treasury was estimated to be worth $300,000,000.

Look to Lenroot

The fate of the administration's ship subsidy legislation depends to a large extent on such men as Senator Irvine L. Lenroot, according to well informed persons here. Mr. Lenroot is counted on to exert a vital influence on republican Senators from the middle west who support, as he does the St. Lawrence greater waterways project, but are noncommittal on the ship subsidy. Decision as to whether or not the president will call a special session of congress following the November elections will be based to a considerable extent on the reports brought back by republicans like Mr. Lenroot who will have an opportunity to sound out sentiment in his speaking tour. The president has been stated officially as desiring a special session, but not anxious to call it in the face of strong opposition.

LEGHORN SETS NEW WORLD RECORD WITH 324 EGGS IN YEAR

SANTA CRUZ, Cal.—The world's egg laying record was broken here Saturday according to officials of the California Farm Bureau federation, when "Columbia Belle," a White Leghorn hen belonging to Alexa Stewart of Santa Cruz, laid her 324th egg on the last day of a farm bureau contest that has been in progress for a year. The former record was 315 eggs on the last day of a farm bureau pure White Leghorn from the Hollywood Poultry farm of Hollywood, Washington.

ORDER VALENTINO TO KEEP CONTRACT

Court Refuses Ear to His Pleas of Mistreatment by Employers

NEW YORK.—An injunction restraining Rodolph Valentino from appearing in any motion pictures other than those produced by the Famous Players-Lasky corporation during the period of his contract, was granted Saturday by Supreme Court Justice Wassergel. Pending final settlement of the case, the plaintiff corporation was directed to post $25,000 as a security bond.

Valentino, according to the testimony, was engaged last January by the Famous Players-Lasky corporation with a salary of $1,250 a week with the option of renewal at an increased salary for one year, or for still another year at another increase. The first option was exercised, and then Valentino failed to appear at the studios in Hollywood September 4, thereby breaking his contract.

The screen star's defense was that he had been unjustly treated, had been humiliated by his employers and at one time obliged to dress in the open while making a desert scene. He has, it was added, had a very unhappy existence during the term of his first contract. His counsel claimed that under a ruling of the California courts Valentino's compensation was inadequate and therefore the contract was non-enforceable.

A FABLE OF RUSSIAN RUBLES

Here is an incident of the regime of the soviet, says the New York Tribune. A certain inhabitant of Moscow who had succeeded in saving a few rubles decided to go into business, and so converted his fortune into 500 kilos of sugar, which he sold again. The operation was so good that he found himself in possession of several million rubles.

Again he bought sugar, but this time, though his capital had become tenfold, he could buy only 100 kilos, because meanwhile the price of this commodity had considerably increased. He sold it again, and his fortune reached hundreds of millions of rubles. This he once more invested in sugar, but got barely 300 kilos, the sale of which, however, considerably increased his fortune. Thus he continued to buy and sell until one day, when he had hundreds of millions of soviet rubles, he could no longer buy more than one lump of sugar. Then he was compelled to pawn it to buy a rope and a nail with which to hang himself.

Lord Harding is quoted as declaring that Kemal's attitude is very reasonable.

Not report on M. HOLLISTER PHILLIPS OLDEST MEMBER OF W. SALEM MASONS

Mrs. Fritz Miller Entertains in Honor of Mrs. Nuytman of Portland, Ore.

WEST SALEM, Wis.—Eleven Masons and their families, making a party of 35 persons, drove to Galesville last Sunday and enjoyed a picnic dinner at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Hollister Phillips. Mr. Phillips is the oldest living member of Salem lodge 125, having been made a Mason on September 21, 1861. It was to show their esteem and make memorials the 50th anniversary of Mr. Phillips' initiation into the full rights of Masonry that inspired the trip to Galesville. After doing justice to the appetizing contents of the baskets an hour was spent in visiting and reminiscence following which L. B. Mercey, in behalf of the lodge, presented Mr. Phillips with a Masonic pin as a mark of esteem. In concluding his brief remarks Mr. Mercey said that Mr. Phillips joined Salem lodge in 1861, and is now its oldest member. If he live 10 years longer and keep in good standing, he will be the longest living member of the lodge. Mr. Phillips joined the lodge during a leave of absence from the army during the civil war in which he served with honor as an officer of the Eighth Wisconsin volunteers. This regiment was organized in 1861 and served throughout the war. Mr. Phillips has had an interesting life and is able to recall the interesting side of his experience. Osteopathy--- The Natural Way

Nature gives the normal body adaptive machinery to keep it free from the effects of disease. So long as natural forces can work unhampered there will be no sickness.

Interference with the mechanism which Nature provides lowers resistance and lowered resistance makes possible the ills and ails which we suffer.

The Osteopathic physician proceeds directly toward restoring natural resistance by keeping free from interference the natural machinery through which Nature operated.

The structures that are at fault are skillfully adjusted until they are once more normal and can work as Nature intended. Natural forces are set free and the laws of Nature return health to the body.

Osteopathy is the natural way to treat disease.

LA CROSSE ORGANIST IS COMPOSER OF SEVERAL FINE MUSICAL NUMBERS

SOLOS AND SONGS
FOR CHOIR HEARD
FOR FIRST TIME

Has Had Fine Musical Training in England and America
Twenty-four Years

"In God's Good Time," is the name which Prof. C. Thornton, organist and choir director of Christ church, has given to a new solo which he finished in September. It will be sung Sunday morning, October 1, in his choir by Mr. Alby Blystad, a baritone. In September, the choir sang another production by Prof. Thornton called, "Hear My Prayer, Oh Lord."

When interviewed by Mrs. Robert B. Lowry, Prof. Thornton confessed to having many other compositions in manuscript form, many of which have been composed for soloists, for choirs and for festival occasions in order to have music especially suitable for either the day or the voices with which he had to deal.

Started in England
In the early part of his career as a church organist at the parish church in Davydhulme, England, it became his habit to compose all of the songs used by the children on White-Sunday. These programs somewhat correspond to the well-known Children's Day programs of today in the Protestant churches of America. For seven years he did this.

At other times, Prof. Thornton composes music just because, while in a meditative mood, there comes some theme, some emotion which makes an appeal for a musical setting. So with one hand on the piano and the other on the manuscript he transcribes his thoughts and emotions into those characters which make them a fixed product for all musicians.

La Crosse, it favored, will welcome the setting which Prof. Thornton has given to three stanzas from The Psalm of Life by our beloved American poet, Henry W. Longfellow. A minor strain through much of this music well interprets such words as "Tell me not in mournful numbers, life is but an empty dream," while bright strains in the major bring out the climax, "Let us then be up and doing with a heart for any fate."

Writes Patriotic Song

Prof. Thornton has lived in La

PROF. C. THORNTON

Crosse but two years but in America eighteen years and it is nice to know that he has come to love us well enough to want to write during the past summer a patriotic song called, "America, Dear Homeland." The theme is love of country and worked into the music is a phrase from the melody of "America," and another from "Home, Sweet Home." This song is bound to touch the heart of every real American when it is once brought before the public.

Many persons in La Crosse are forming the habit of dropping into Christ church at the twilight hour between seven and eight when Prof. Thornton is often at the organ playing for his own pleasure after an afternoon of recreation on the river. The professor owes a launch and it is his habit to go out on the river on afternoons when the weather is nice to drink in the air, the sunshine, the verdant hills, the high sky-line, the feeling of freedom and the bigness of things. After returning he likes to play and let the music of his soul speak through the multitudinous pipes of the organ. At such times he may play for hours.

An Early Riser

In his younger days, and the professor has been a professional musician for twenty-four years, it was the twilight hours of the morning which found him at his organ. He rose at four o'clock, walked a mile and a half to the church in Davydhulme, which is near Manchester, played for an hour and a half and then returned for breakfast. At eight o'clock he boarded a train for Manchester where he worked for a large firm which did a great deal of business with Germany and France. It was his business to carry on the correspondence which was written either in German or French.

After returning home he spent his evenings teaching either voice, piano or organ—about eleven he retired. For seven years this was his program.

He has been studying music since he was eight years old and is a graduate of Durham University, England, where the course in music is very comprehensive and exacting. Prof. Thornton has come to believe that there is no royal road to artistic accomplishment in music and finds that even talented people must apply themselves through long years of practice if they would become true musicians.

Therefore it is not to be wondered at that while teaching in private, drilling his own choir or the federated choirs of the city as he did when they sang "The Crucifixion" last April that he should expect sincere, concentrated and long sustained effort on the parts of his pupils.

Prof. Thornton, is as they express it in England, a diplomated professor. He is also the representative and examiner in music in the United States of America for the Society of Science, Letters and Art, London, England.

System is Above All

If I were asked what is one of the best mottoes for a young man to adopt, I should say, "Be systematic." There is nothing like system. It should be evident in everything one does—in one's mode of living, in study, and in business.—Sir H. Woodman Burbidge.

CAKE EATER WORST TRAFFIC OFFENDER POLICEMAN AVERS

Flapper Breaks Through, too,
But Male Variety Gets Decision by Shade

Here's another addition for the already ponderous indictment against flapper and the cake eater.

Emil Last, Main street patrolman, says they are the worst offenders when it comes to disobeying the traffic rules that govern motor traffic in the city, and especially in the business section. Mr. Last good-naturedly adds, however, that he is the friend of all the youthful automobilists in La Crosse, and can't get very cross at them, despite their shortcomings.

"The girls aren't as bad as the boys," according to Mr. Last, which gives the flapper a little edge on her male counterpart. "The young chaps try to get smart and slip by me every chance they can. But the girls

Mr. Last shook his head after the despairing manner of mankind when trying to solve the riddle of woman. "The girls expect partially now and then," was his tactful way of explaining outstanding feminine transgression against traffic rules. "Yes, they think I ought to let them by."

Visitors seem to be more confused on how they should drive downtown than anyone. We have to take time to explain some of the rules to them before they will believe them. Oh yes, we have our troubles and share of experiences with the vagaries of human nature, all right.

"But the cake eater is the worst of them all. That class of youths is the limit."

His Lucid Moment

"This lets me out," said the discharged prof. as he opened the door. —Syracuse Orange Peel.

A KAY-BYNG PETTIE II SEC SU PART II

I had once read a story about the tide washing away a sandbar along the New England coast, and in this story the man who was caught on the bar nearly lost his life. It seems to me now that under the circumstances I might have had a more pleasant thought, but I didn't. Did the current act in the same manner as the tide? I'm afraid I must admit that we were a bit worried.

We spent an uneasy hour or so watching the water rise slowly and threateningly. However, it only came up a few inches more, and after it went to have reached its height we went to sleep on the sand. In the morning it was fully a foot lower, and still going down. Then the reason dawned upon us. At Sank City the water reached its height about noon, when the power house at the dam was working full capacity. We had run ahead of the water and it did not reach us until after dark. Thus we learned another trick of the Wisconsin.

The day was more or less uneventful. We stayed along over countless sand bars, rarely finding enough water in the channel to run the motor successfully. One of the most exasperating experiences was that of having the engine run perfectly while we were stuck on the sand bar and it was of little use, and then on striking deep water to have it balk like the proverbial Mande.

The camp on the sand bar had not proved to be the most satisfactory, and the next night we chose a high bank overlooking a deep swift pool. The tent was pitched under a cluster of lindens, the fire before it reflected in the pool below, and as darkness crept up the shifting shadows played about the tent and boat— weird and fantastic. The river swept by, black and mysterious, the fuzzy blackness of trees on the opposite bank made the river seem infinitely wide and big. We talked about the fire a long time, enchanted by the impressive beauty that night lent to the river.

The next day we pushed ahead as fast as we could because we wanted to reach Tower Hill for the night. At seven o'clock we were stranded on a bar just above our destination. The sun had long set when we tied up to a convenient tree and began the work of pitching camp. Just below camp the river runs along a high cliff. The water is very deep there and we could hear the muzzling gurgle of whirlpools. The next day we learned that four men had been drowned in these eddies the year before. I was rather glad we had chosen our camp above the cliffs.

On the hill above camp we saw a light and what ever else he could get at a farm house. An hour later we heard him calling for a light. My brother took the lantern and went out to look for him. In a few minutes they returned. I could see by the lantern light that something was wrong; Chuck was grinding mud from above his knees, the egg sack which he carried well away from his body was moist and his language was not the most delicate. He had wandered into a slough between our camp and the farm house. When we examined it in the morning we found it an entanglement of brush and logs which had been carried there by the spring flood. He must have had the Devil's own time getting across it. I still don't see how he did it.

"Follow the path along the river to Tower Hill," we were told the next morning. At least we followed the river, possibly the path had not been used recently— mud, sandbars, rocks and water. But we finally arrived, and it was worth the effort.

Tower Hill derives its name from the old shot tower built there early in the nineteenth century. It caused Strangely enough, the logging and shot industries were more or less dependent upon one another. Much of the shot made at the tower was transported down the river on lumber rafts and the wagons bringing the lead from Mineral Point carried lumber back with them.

Thus the town of Helena thrived. A hotel capable of accommodating two hundred guests was built along with enough saloons to furnish the proper excitement for an untamed country. Let Mrs. Clancy put the picture before you:

"Helena, after the Black Hawk war (1832) became one of the busiest places along the river. Each day brought in new people. They came from the lead mines in the south drawing lead wagons by teams of nine yoke of oxen, on lumber rafts from the north, and by steam boat from the west.

"The raft-men were the wildest. Theirs was the dangerous job, the long clumsy rafts were hard to manage and often they were smashed up and the men lost, especially at the Dells. It was very dangerous. They used to have a song about it—

"Pilot, oh pilot tell me true, Is my dear Willie among the crew?"

"No my dear maiden he is not here, He is drowned in the Dells I fear, By some sand rock as we passed by Oh, there's where we left your dear piny boy."

"This often happened, as the song says, and we as children used to go down to the river and gather up the cranberries that collect along the shore. They would float down here from the rafts that broke up; you see the rafts carried a little freight on their way down and cranberries and logs was about all the people in the north had to sell at that time."

Mrs. Clancy's father used to run the saw mill and lumber yard at Helena. Now all that is left of it is a few scattered pieces of machinery and the old office with its false front and square walls. In the boom days lumber rafts were so congested at the mill that it was impossible to cross the river on them. Men were in the water continually breaking them up and working them to the skids that fed the saw mill. It is hard to imagine all this activity where the river is so deserted and placid now, the shriek of the saw, the logs, and the dripping, cursing men, some of them singing as they worked:

Hi-de-rid-a-dee—hi-ha-rid-a-dee
Times are mighty hard,
All they pay is a dollar a day
To work in the lumber yard.

It is interesting to know that Helena missed being the state capital by only one vote. Had not that one legislator preferred Madison, Helena would be a thriving city now, and Madison the resort of anthropologists seeking the mysteries of Indian mounds. The university campus might have been on tower hill, a deadly climb for students, the capitol on the next bluff, and Hausman's beer hall somewhere in the slough.

While roaming about the site of this extinct community we happened upon the happy-go-lucky proprietor of the Riverside Garage, Jim Olson. Jim is what some people might call a "card," others a "character," an "inimitable fellow"—there are many expressions that could be used, but none quite fill the bill. You might guess from his name that he is Jewish, but you are wrong; neither is he Scandinavian. The truth is that Jim is a mechanic. He can't tell you how or why, but when Jim talks to a Ford that Ford does everything a Ford should do.

We had had a little trouble with the engine, the old Kay Byng wasn't cutting the water the way a good motor boat should and we decided to let Jim try his luck on it. Well, Jim talked good American to it for a time, but still it ran poorly. Then he began to abuse it, his terminology was simply marvellous, but old Maude only kicked back and Jim bumped his head. He began to study the situation more carefully and put his inventive genius to work. After a number of trials this did the business. "Jimmiey-cricket-house-adre-go-you-son-of-a-gun," and it went!

"Yes sir," says Jim, "It's just like the gas mixture, it can't be too rich and it can't be too weak. Its got to be just right."

Some people will be skeptical about this, but we have tried it ourselves and we swear by Jim.

As we slipped under the bridge that leads to Spring Green I glanced back at Tower Hill and the water worn cliff below it. Nicollet was the first white man to look upon these bluffs. That was in 1637, the year that Marquette was born. Marquette, the man to discover the upper Mississippi came next in 1672, and then a century elapsed before any extensive exploration was made. Fifty years of fur trading and Indian fighting followed. Civilization crept in, a great lumber industry, a shot tower, a booming town, nearly a state capital—add another half century and more—today a tranquil plodding rural community.

Thanks to Mrs. Jenkin Loyd Jones this historic and picturesque spot will soon become a state park and be preserved as such places should be.

* * * *

Top much history is not good for one. I had been thinking of the days when the Wisconsin was called the Ouisconsin—wild and rushing water—and had run upon another sand bar. This "wild and rushing water" is more fittingly described by the government engineer, who said that the only way to make the Wisconsin navigable was to wait in the sides and plaster the bottom.

And many times before we reached the Mississippi we wished that his proposal had somehow been carried out.

Now It Costs $995

A Sturdy Six at the Price of a Light Six

At its new low price the Jewett Six is still further removed from the possibility of legitimate comparison or competition.

This Paige-built six-cylinder, 50 horsepower automobile was introduced to the public less than a year ago as a new standard of value. On that basis it made good with a success of amazing proportions, for here at last at the price of a so-called "light" six was a six of genuinely sturdy construction. Every part and unit was found to be more than equal to the demand of any speed, or any condition of the road.

The car that unquestionably established a standard of unprecedented value has now been reduced to $995 f. o. b. factory. There is just one way to understand what this price means. You must examine the Jewett, ride in it, and then compare it with any other five-passenger six.

The complete Paige-Jewett lines of six-cylinder passenger cars offer a selection of thirteen models priced from $995 to $3350. The complete line of Paige trucks meets every haulage need. They are sold and serviced by Paige dealers everywhere.

Lessens Labor

Cuts Gas Bills

The Chambers Fireless actually costs you nothing—here's the proof of it: You have been accustomed to using 90 to 120 minutes of gas to cook your roasts—a Chambers Fireless will do it as well with 20 to 30 minutes of gas. The same proportion exists on other things you cook. Figure it yourself. How much will your saving be per month?

Saves the Flavor

In addition to the saving of fuel, a big daily saving of high-priced food flavor makes a rapidly growing cash return. Cooking in this way, you have as much meat out of an 8½ pound roast as you formerly had out of 10 pounds. The rest went out in steam. The same proportion exists on other things you cook. Figure for yourself. How much in dollars and cents can you save three times a day by stopping this loss?

Saves Your Time

In time, health and convenience, a Chambers Fireless rapidly pays for itself—here's the proof of it: You have been accustomed to assigning your morning to preparation of dinner in the old way. The Chambers Way is to start your baking or roasting in the oven or your boiling under the hood and with the food started, there is no reason to spend further time in the kitchen. Figure for yourself—what this would mean in your home.

Lessens Labor

How many steps are wasted daily in "running back to the kitchen" to see the dinner. You have been accustomed to "watching the pot" day by day—three times a day—basting your roast, for instance. A Chambers Fireless, retaining all food flavors and steam, requires no water to keep the roast from burning, and is self-basting. Once a meal is started—no more steps need to be spent in the kitchen until it is served.

AUTOMOBILE ACCIDENTS INCREASING IN SPITE OF STRICTER REGULATIONS

CHICAGO, Ill.—By The Associated Press.—Despite the passage of numerous ordinances and the adoption of traffic regulations in the larger cities of the country in an effort to curb accidents from motor cars, reports from more than a dozen of the metropolitan cities of the middle-west show an increase in the number of accidents for the first six months of 1922, compared with the same period of 1921.

This increase has caused city officials to prescribe drastic rules in governing motor traffic in an endeavor to lessen danger in modern traveling. Several of the cities are shown to be waging war on the speeder, in many cases imprisonment being added to fines by municipal judges. Adoption of rules in turning at street intersections, elimination of glaring headlights and educational campaigns are other methods used in many cities in the campaign against accidents.

In Chicago in 1921, deaths attributed to motor accidents totaled 575 as compared with 475 in 1920. Non-fatal accidents totaled 8,657 in 1921 and 7,085 in 1920. During the first four months of 1922, non-fatal accidents totaled 2,533.

Forty-three persons were killed and 1,655 injured in automobile accidents in Cleveland from February 1 to August 1, 1922. To offset this, work-house sentences have been imposed upon speeders and reckless drivers, no one under 18 years of age may drive a car and second offense for failure to have lights burning results in arrest, no matter what the circumstance.

To curb accidents in St. Louis, where sixty-two were killed during the first six months of this year and 1,327 were injured, an educational campaign has been started. One-way traffic has been established in congested districts during business hours, automobiles must come to complete stop at all boulevards, must not pass a street car discharging passengers and must not exceed eight miles an hour in the congested districts and twenty miles in the residential districts.

Detroit's attempts to increase safety are the adoption of the tower system of regulating traffic and the establishment of safety zones for street car passengers. Another ordinance requires all persons to be able to drive an automobile under all conditions before being granted a state driver's license. Seventy persons were killed there during the first six months of 1922 and 1,921 were injured.

Strict enforcement of speed laws and frequent jail sentences for speeders and reckless drivers has been the method adopted in Indianapolis for increasing safety. In down-town sections traffic officers direct pedestrians while others direct street traffic.

In Oklahoma City, most of the main traveled streets have been designated boulevards and before crossing these motorists are required to come to a complete stop. Heavy white "Stop" signs painted on the pavement at these intersections remind the driver.

An "unwritten law" is in effect in Louisville where police court judges assess a fine of $2 for each mile an hour above the speed limit. Penitentiary sentence under charge of manslaughter is provided for drivers found responsible for deaths resulting from accidents. Cars must be under full control at all street intersections.

Milwaukee has barred the left hand turn and instituted a jay-walking ordinance requiring pedestrians to cross streets at intersections. Automobiles on prescribed thoroughfares are given right-of-way over all traffic crossing such streets.

Thirteen deaths because of automobile accidents were reported during the first six months of 1922 in Dallas, Texas. In down-town sections the right-hand turn only is permitted, cars are required to stop at least five feet in the rear of street cars discharging passengers and safety zones have been established at various points in down-town streets.

BY C. A. W.

The Bismarck Tribune of August 29th has a news item announcing the appointment of Julius S. Kauffuss, son of Mrs. Emma Kauffuss of this city, as secretary of the North Dakota State Good Roads association, at a salary of $5,000 per year. It doesn't seem so many years ago that Julius was secretary and shortstop of the original W. B. U. Athletics, at that time considered one of the best amateur teams in the northwest. On that team were "Fritz" and "Coco" Johnson, George Kohn, "Mugger" Kirshen, the late "Dutchy" Mueller, Walter Nigili, and Eddie Konechky. Kauffuss graduated from the local high school in 1904, and from the engineering school of the University of Wisconsin in 1908. He played baseball on the varsity from 1906 to 1908, and was elected captain in 1907.

After his graduation, he spent some time as a civil engineer on the irrigation project at Yaller, Mont., and made a topographic survey for the La Crosse Water Power company. In 1910, he went to the University of Maine as an instructor in civil engineering. When he resigned from the faculty of that school in 1916, he was the associate professor of engineering. During the time he was at the University of Maine, he spent one summer in the U. S. good roads testing laboratory at Washington, and later installed a road materials testing laboratory in the university for the benefit of the highway engineering students. This laboratory gave free service to the county and state highway departments. He was next engaged in revising text-books on concrete for the International Correspondence schools at Scranton, Pa. In June, 1917, he accepted a position as state highway engineer of North Dakota, and organized a state highway department. At his resignation in May of this year, he was assistant chief state engineer of North Dakota. He immediately took a position as appraisal engineer for the state railway commission, but resigned in August to become secretary of the good roads association. The association is engaged in advancing the good roads movement in this state, and in fostering good roads legislation which will place North Dakota in its proper rank among the road building states of the nation. Kauffuss' long experience as a highway engineer and his ability as an organizer and executive, is undoubtedly the reason for his appointment to this responsible position.

A quarter century ago a little fair-haired, pretty girl named Esther Evenson lived with her parents on the second floor of a store building in Second street, between Main and State streets. At the sweet and unsuspecting age of nine Esther met the manager of "The Streets of New York" company in her father's printshop, said dad being Peter Evenson, owner and editor of The Varden, a Norwegian newspaper published here in those days. Esther says she well remembers the thrills feeling that crawled up and down her spine as the theatrical man declared: "Esther would be ideal for Dard, the boot-black." There followed days and days when Esther begged her parents for permission to embark on a theatrical career. Finally they consented, although it was specified that an older sister should accompany her as chaperon. She scored an instantaneous hit as a child actress and soon was widely known as "Petite Esther." The older sister soon married the manager of the show. After attaining womanhood Esther, while playing with Marks Brothers in a Canadian repertoire company, met and married Oscar O'Shea. Today Esther Evans, as she is known on the stage, is character woman of the Garrick Players, a company which is favorably known in theatrical circles over the United States and Canada, while her husband is stage director of the company. They have one son, Emmet, attending Marquette academy in Milwaukee. There are a number of residents of La Crosse who remember the Evenson family and who are interested in Esther Evans and her splendid career as an actress.

I understand that Mr. and Mrs. Russell Paroe, former residents of La Crosse, have been given charge of the Sunshine Rooming house, which is operated by the Sunshine Gospel Mission in Chicago and is really one of the really worth while places of this sort in the Windy city. North Clark street, where the rooming house is located, always had an unsavory reputation previous to the coming of prohibition. Since the Volstead act was passed, however, Chicago people declare, the street has become respectable. Mr. Paroe is assistant superintendent of the Gospel Mission. He and his wife have enrolled in the evening classes of the Moody Bible Institute and are enjoying this privilege. In a letter to the Tribune Mr. Paroe wrote: "I have met two La Crosse people here and certainly was pleased. It seems that Donald Weber likes to watch a fire as well as to do. We had a rather large fire here some time past and while watching it I felt someone touch me on the shoulder. It was Mr. Weber. I had not known that Mr. Collinge was in Chicago, but when Donald Weber told me so I took the first opportunity to stop at Kresge's store where he is manager and see him. The three of us have been too busy to meet again but one meeting of some folks in a strange place is like getting money from home—it cheers one up and reminds him that his home isn't the worst place after all."

Hollister S. Phillips, civil war veteran, former La Crosse sheriff and old resident of Galesville, has a record of being a member of Salem lodge No. 125, F. and A. M., for fifty-eight years. This fact was adduced from an examination of the records of the West Salem lodge earlier in the month, and as a result of this interesting discovery, forty members of the Salem lodge motored to Galesville and gave their elderly brother a surprise party which was one of the happiest events of the season in the Trempealeau county city. The West Salem Masons and members of the Eastern Star carried a picnic dinner with them, and at the conclusion of the feast Ben Mercereau, in behalf of the Salem lodge, presented Mr. Phillips with a gold Masonic pin. Mr. Phillips has a splendid war record, having enlisted when a mere boy and served as a soldier with Grant and Sherman all through the campaigns of the army of the west. He was made a Mason at West Salem in 1864 when he was sent north as a recruiting officer. After the war the family lived in Salem for a time and then moved to La Crosse after Mr. Phillips was elected sheriff of this county. The family has resided in Galesville fifteen years.

Miss Gena Thompson, sister of the late James Thompson and well known in La Crosse, where she has addressed women's meetings, has resigned the office of secretary of the Wisconsin Women's Progressive association to enter the university law school. Mrs. R. L. Siebecker, who succeeded to the secretariatship of this organization, Miss Thompson has forensic ability and a basis education which equip her easily to win a sheepskin in the law school and she probably will become a lawyer in jig-time.

Willis F. Barber, chairman of the Wisconsin Conservation commission, and Orlando Holway, adjutant general of the Wisconsin National Guard, are two La Crosse contributors to an unique history of the Badger state which Mr. M. M. Quafie, former superintendent of the State Historical society is preparing. The work, which will comprise two volumes of approximately 300,000 words each, will consist of two main parts: 1. A comprehensive history of the state from its earliest beginning, almost three centuries ago, written by Mr. Quafie. 2. A series of articles written by specialists in their respective fields, describing the present day organization and working of the Wisconsin government. It is in this latter volume where the La Crosse men will have contributions. Mr. Barber will describe the work of the conservation commission, which he heads; while General Holway will relate the details of the organization of the National Guard and its development during the years he has been such a dominant factor in its work. A. M. Brynton, publisher of the Tribune, is one of the sponsors and advisers for the new work.

George Bunce, a former resident of Bangor, discovered a notice on his barn door, at his farm near Rice Lake, which read: "You better sell out if you want anything left." Mr. Bunce, however, the valuable cows are a horse at intervals during June after paring green was found sprinkled in the barn mangers. Several nights ago he was awakened by the barking of his dog and Mr. Bunce found gasoline had been poured upon the hay and throughout the barn. The Bunce farm is near the Demers farm, where a barn was burned two years ago after warnings had been made. No reason can be given for the series of outrages. Mr. Bunce is a veteran of the Spanish war and an expert marksman, and said he will not be frightened away from his property. Here's luck, George.

LA CROSSE SHRINE CLUB IS WORKING FOR TEMPLE HERE

Local Organization Must Get Six Hundred Members to Obtain Desired Charter

FIFTIETH ANNIVERSARY OF MYSTIC SHRINE OBSERVED

Organization is Building Hospitals for Crippled Children

La Crosse Shriners last Tuesday observed the fiftieth anniversary of the Ancient Arabic Order of Nobles of the Mystic Shrine.

Embracing a local membership of 167 and a district membership of 285, the La Crosse Shrine club is quietly but surely working toward the establishment of a temple of the Mystic Shrine here. Tripioli temple of Milwaukee with which the local shriners are identified, is the only temple now in Wisconsin. Six hundred members are required to establish a temple. That this number will be obtained in western Wisconsin and a temple organized here is the conviction of La Crosse Shriners who are active in the movement. Within a year it is hoped to add at least 100 members to the La Crosse Shrine club, and the desired membership to establish a temple here is expected to be attained by a determined campaign within two years.

Started in 1872
In 1872 Mecca temple, the original chapter, was founded in New York. Since then, 155 temples have been established. These are scattered throughout the United States, Canada, and Mexico. One has also been founded in the Panama canal zone. The organization is strictly a North American fraternity.

William J. Florence, American actor, in 1871 journeyed to Mecca, Arabia, on a foreign pleasure tour and at Aleppo, Syria, was admitted to the session of the ancient Mystic Shrine, being created a noble therein.

On his return to America, Mr. Florence carried out an idea gained after his admission. He was a thirty-third degree Mason and believed that a burlesque of the serious eastern order might yield to American Masonry an hour or two of playtime. With Dr. Walter Fleming, a prominent Knight Templar of New York, he worked out a plan to establish a modern Mystic Shrine for Masons who, passing through the York rite, had attained the rank of Knight Templar, or who working through the Scottish rite were thirty-second degree Masons.

Organize Mecca Temple
The Shrine degree was conferred upon a group of Templars and thirty-second degree Masons in New York September 26, 1872, for the first time, and Mecca temple was formally organized. The idea spread rapidly and in 1880 traveled westward as far as Chicago, where Mecca temple was founded. This is now the largest temple, with a membership of 21,500.

In 1884 Judge Henry L. Palmer, Milwaukee, then sovereign commander of Scottish Rite Masons of the northern jurisdiction of America, and several other active Masonic workers were initiated with the Shrine degree, and March 8, 1885, received a charter to form Tripioli temple.

Tripioli temple now has a membership of 5,250.
The La Crosse Shrine club was given its first big boost during the ceremonial last year, when over 100 new members were acquired.

Build Hospitals
The modern Mystic Shrine never carried any of the significance of the ancient oriental order as a body for the summary execution of justice. It was founded as a social order, and has always been known as "the playground of Masonry." It retained the fanciful titles, gorgeous paraphernalia, traditions, customs and even most of the beautiful ritual of the ancient order, but only as a background for an unstrained spirit of fun. Nevertheless, its work has a deep, serious and powerful appeal in its philosophy and symbolism.

This has found expression in the launching of a great charity to the form of the Shriners' hospitals for crippled children. Searching for ways and means to make the Shrine of service to humanity in addition to providing fun for its constituents, W. Fredrick Kendrick, Philadelphia, when imperial potentate of North America in 1910-1920, proposed that a great hospital be erected at some central point in the United States wherein deformed and crippled children might be treated at the expense of the Shrine. The money to build the hospital and maintain it was to be provided by an assessment of $2 a year upon every member of the order.

$1,000,000 Raised in 1921
One million dollars was raised by this means in 1921, and Shriners paid their assessment so freely and willingly that the program was elaborated upon. It was decided to build five hospitals at once, instead of a single central institution, and to plan five more to be built within three years. A second $1,000,000 was raised by the 1922 assessment, and a third will be when the 1923 assessment is paid January 1.

The hospital at St. Louis will be ready to receive patients at the end of this year. The cornerstone of the one at San Francisco was laid during the annual Shrine convention last June, and the building will soon be ready. Work is well under way on the Cana-

RAIL SECURITIES

Buy Only the Long Haul Roads Says Babson.

WELLESLEY HILLS, Mass.—Since the settlement of the railroad strike many tips have come from Wall Street relative to the purchase of railroad securities. Relative to these recommendations Roger W. Babson today issued the following statement:

"There is no doubt but that the settlement of the railroad strike is favorable to general business. Owing to the coal situation, such a settlement was absolutely necessary. Moreover, it has been more or less favorable to the railroads. The wage-workers have gone back at the rates determined by the Railroad Labor board and most of those who went out on strike are sorry that they did it. The seniority question was settled on a 50-50 basis, neither side claiming a victory. This also is well for all concerned because the railroads are now able to restore seniority rights to the good men who deserve them and to withhold them from those who do not. Wall Street is justified in sending out reports that the settlement is favorable to railroad securities."

"The settlement of the strike on the present basis should also prompt both sides to 'count ten' before another strike is precipitated. In other words, the railroad strike was expensive for both the railroads and the wage-workers. The wage-workers today realize that the railroads are stronger and better able to handle a labor situation than has been the case for many years, while the railroads have greater respect for the labor unions than they have had heretofore. All of this means that when another difference arises both sides will be anxious to patch up the difficulty before a strike is called instead of being anxious to precipitate a strike as seems to have been the case two months ago. Therefore, barring the European situation which may adversely affect all securities, I feel fairly optimistic on railroad securities. I say that the European situation may adversely affect all securities because people are liable to rush to sell their European securities and in so doing all securities will be affected, even though another European war would ultimately help our industrial and indirectly our railroads."

"Railroad securities, however, must be bought with great discrimination. The time is past when all railroads are good or bad. The next few years will witness great changes in the railroad field as the past ten have witnessed in the traction field. Railroads have already felt the effects of pleasure automobiles, but they have not really begun yet to feel the effects of auto trucking. The trucking of goods within radii of fifty or one hundred miles has only begun and this radius may readily be extended to cover 200 or 250 miles. Trans-continental systems such as the Union Pacific, Northern Pacific, Great Northern, Southern Pacific, Chicago, Rock Island & Pacific, and Atchafalpa have nothing to fear from the trucks. In fact, the trucks may help them. Roads like the New York Central, Baltimore & Ohio and the Southern can survive and perhaps profit under this competition. With a road such as the Boston & Maine, New Haven, Pennsylvania, Chicago & Northwestern, Reading and the like, this is not true. These roads are bound to suffer far more from the truck than they now think possible."

"We shall live to see great highways built by the state exclusively for truck use. Railroads are destined ultimately to lose all of their short haul business and hence the roads which are in comparatively small and compact territories are sure to suffer. The only hope for some roads such as the Boston & Maine and New Haven is to sell certain of their rights of way to the state in order that the tracks may be removed and concrete highways laid in their place. Many roads have parallel lines today under their control. The wise railroad company will develop one of these for itself and will sell the other at a good price to the state for a concrete truck highway. Frankly, I would rather take my chances with concrete securities than with railroad securities bought indiscriminately. Therefore, in taking any tips from Wall Street to buy railway securities use great discrimination to select those which cannot be adversely affected by a great development in trucking or those whose management is far-sighted enough to reduce their mileage to only such as is profitable, selling the rest for trucking highways."

Continued activity in building lines has brought general business to a new high level for the year. The index of the Babsonchart now stands at but five percent below normal—an improvement of two percent since last week.

dian hospital at Montreal, and the southern branch at Shreveport, La. The cornerstone of the northwestern division institution at Minneapolis and St. Paul was laid September 25, on the eve of the golden jubilee. Imperial Potentate James S. McCandless, Honolulu, officiated at the exercises.

The remaining five hospitals will be started early in 1923 and will be located at Portland, Ore., and at points in Pennsylvania, New England, Virginia, and the Rocky Mountain states, to be selected soon.

Care for Crippled Children
In each case the hospital is located in a city having a Shrine temple, the temple having donated the site, together with liberal endowment to supplement the maintenance funds raised by the annual assessment. This insures an annual income of $1,000,000 a year to carry out the great charity. There are 480,000 crippled children in North America and they will be treated, irrespective of race, color, or creed, without cost save where parents are able to pay for treatment.

DISCARDED STRAWS SWELL FUEL SUPPLY AT CLEANERS' SHOPS

Inquiry Shows that Old Hats Brave Fire Beside Wind and Rain of La Crosse

The frugal housewife doubtless will exclaim in horror when she learns what happens to most of the discarded straw hats in La Crosse. Their fate generally is decided in a hat shop or cleaner's establishment, where their owners, putting on their new fall hats, nonchalantly push their fists through the abandoned headgear with the remark:

"Well, it's goodbye for that lid." And the ultimate fate, then, of the tattered remains, is consignment to the fire.

"We burn up lots of discarded straw hats every fall," said the proprietor of a Main street hat store. "If the hats are any good their owners throw them behind our counters and tell us to clean them up and keep them until next season. So we do that. And they call for them when spring comes around again."

No repairing process will restore a straw hat to its pristine freshness after it is once really worn out, according to one downtown cleaner. "It can't be patched," he said. "The only solution of the discarded straw hat problem is the bonfire."

"BARBERSHOP" DATE IS LATEST WRINKLE OF LA CROSSE FLAPPERS

"Excuse me," said the young man, "but I have a date," and he hurried into a barber shop.

"A funny place to go for a date," a bystander commented. But Walter Wagner, proprietor of the barbershop, came to the rescue with an explanation.

"The barber shop date is the latest to hit town," he said. "This is the third time it has been sprung on me and bobbed hair is to blame."

Two weeks ago a young man came in with his girl and treated her to a "bob" or trim, while he had a shave and a massage in the next chair. Apparently it was just as much his treat as if he had purchased a soda water for her.

"After I recovered from that one," said Mr. Wagner, "I got another jolt of a similar nature. Now there are several pairs who make it a practice to meet in the shop and converse while barbers do their work. Or else they meet some place else and come in together to keep the barber shop date."

The bystander was silent, non-phased. "You're next," the proprietor said. "You'll have to pardon me," the bystander replied. "My girl is home so I'll have to pass up this chance for a date."

And then along comes George Hall with the announcement that white flappers needn't think they have the world by the elbow. During fair week a dusky Indian belle of perhaps 19 summers, with a little boy in tow, entered Mr. Hall's shop and asked to have her hair bobbed. "I am sorry, lady," said Mr. Hall, "but we don't bob ladies' hair here." Three hours later she passed the Hall shop again and her hair was bobbed as slick as any white girl's. Miss Babana had arrived in flapperdom.

Boycott Them

"Now, children," beamed the Sunday school teacher, "who can suggest the lesson we are taught by the downfall of Samson? Very well, George, 'Don't patronize women barbers.'"

RADIO CONCERTS ARE RECEIVED NIGHTLY AT THE SANATORIUM

Oak Forest Patients Enjoy Receiving Set Purchased by Community Council Fund

W. H. MIELKE IS OPERATOR OF SET FOR THE PATIENTS

Kansas City, Atlanta, Denver and Even Canada Heard

WITH concerts and news reports every morning from 10:30 to 12 noon, nightly concerts, and Sunday sermons, all provided by radio, the patients at Oak Forest sanatorium, partly isolated from the rest, still have the world at their fingertips, so to speak.

Minneapolis broadcasts a number of late phonograph record numbers and a news summary beginning at 10:30 a. m. each day. Every evening, Kansas City, Denver, St. Louis, Atlanta or Schenectady broadcasts programs of musical numbers, songs, lectures of current topics and songs. On Sunday afternoons Kansas City sends forth over the land a religious sermon.

Long Hours Pass Pleasantly

The radio set which has brought so much joy to the hearts of the patients and has made the evening hours speed by was provided by the La Crosse Community Council from funds raised by the Neapolitan street fair which the council gave early in the summer in Riverside park. The receiving set was installed in the sun parlor on the second floor of the sanatorium. Here in the cool evenings, with a cheery fire burning in the fireplace and several groups passing the time at cards, the set is adjusted and out of the magnophone comes the strains of a violin played in Kansas City, or the raggy, jazzy tunes of a syncopated orchestra in St. Louis or a clear, sweet-voiced soprano in Atlanta.

W. H. Mielke is Operator

W. H. Mielke, a patient, has learned to operate the radio receiving set and is enabled to cut the outfit in on concerts nearly every day and evening that the weather is favorable. A few evenings ago Mr. Mielke heard a concert broadcasted by a station in Ontario, Canada, and on Monday night last received part of a concert broadcasted at Regina, Saskatchewan.

The antenna of the receiving set consists of a single wire 170 feet long supported at the far end by a large 55 foot pole and at the other end by the building just under the eaves. Owing to the high resistance of the soil in the vicinity, a number 14 copper wire was buried the entire length of the antenna and directly under it. This considerably reduced the high frequency resistance of the antenna system and increased the capacity somewhat.

The tuner is the Tuska expert, double circuit control with switch to change from low to high wave length. This set is noted for its great selectivity owing to its inductive coupling and maximum signal strength. Regeneration is equally good over the entire scale of wave length. The set proper consists of three units—the tuner, the detector and first stage and for the last cabinet is included the two stage amplifier, making three stages of audio frequency amplification. Heretofore it has been impracticable to use more than two stages of amplification owing to distortion of the signal and to enormous amplification of extraneous and inductive noises. By means of thorough metal shielding between these transformers which have a ratio of 1 to 9 and owing to the construction of the transformers themselves, noise and distortion has been practically eliminated and pure volume of sound can be obtained when strong atmospheres are absent.

Magnavox in the Set

The loud speaker is the ordinary radio Magnavox and is operated by a six volt storage battery.

A good headset is also provided with the outfit and a magnetic rectifier for charging the storage battery which operates the four vacuum tubes and the loud speaker.

The retail price of this set was $350 complete with installation but the La Crosse Radio Electric company made the complete installation at practically cost or $275.

DETOURS OPENED ON FOUR STATE ROADS HIGHWAYS ARE DUSTY

MILWAUKEE, Wis.—Completion of highway construction projects has permitted removal of detours on state trunk highway 15 west of Marshfield, on 54 at Luxemburg, on 20 at the eastern city limits of Monroe, and on 17 just south of Starkeon Bay, according to the Milwaukee Journal's weekly review of highway conditions. A better detour has been established on 17 around Two Rivers, at the junction of 64 and 25 in Dunn county, and on 107 between Portland and Columbus.

Highways of southern Wisconsin, except concrete, are unusually dusty.

AMERICAN WOMEN STILL WANT THE DRY LAW UPHOLD

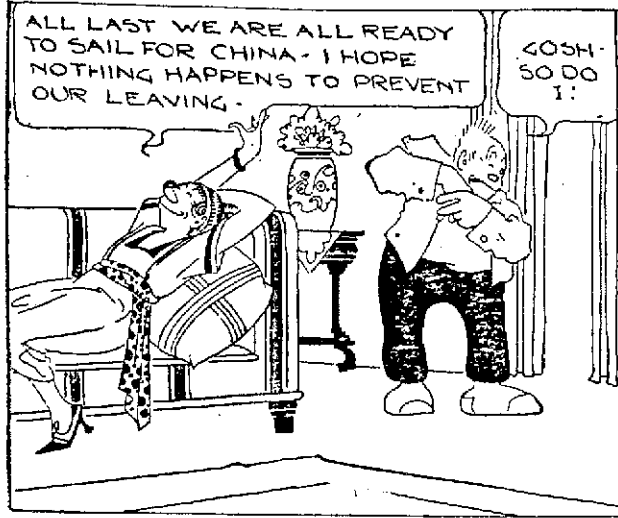

Just as much in Favor of Volstead Law as Ever, Says W. C. T. U.

CHICAGO, Ill.—American women today stand as solidly behind enforcement of the Volstead law as ever declare officials of the Women's Christian Temperance Union replying to the call of Major General Daniel Appleton, vice president of the New York Association against the Prohibition Amendment, for 1,000 women recruits for an anti-Volstead army.

In organizing the Molly Pitcher club in New York, as part of the organization he represents, General Appleton declared the Volstead law "is a falsehood and has no place in our law," adding that "every thinking man and woman demands its repeal."

The W. C. T. U. cites resolutions passed by the Young Women's Christian Association, League of Women Voters, National Business and Professional Women's Association, National Women's Trades Union, Mothers' Congress, Parent-Teachers' Association, and General Federation of Women's Clubs, each favoring enforcement of the law at national meetings held during the year.

BRINGING UP FATHER

THE JAMES-BANNEN PARTIES CHARMING SOCIAL FUNCTIONS

OPHELIA and Columbia roses in abundance lent a charm, and their spicy fragrance shed sweet perfume to the rooms, when Mrs. Abram James and Mrs. W. E. Bannen were delightful hostesses at the home of the latter, 826 West Avenue South, from three to six at afternoon reception on Saturday.

In the living and dining rooms these beautiful blossoms were arranged in tall vases, baskets and low cut bowls. In the library they were combined with asters in all their wonderful fall colorings. Ophelia roses alone were brought into use in the serving room, two small silver baskets at either side of a large one filled with these pink beauties, featured the table, which was dressed in a handsome cloth of drawn linen.

The roses in the living room were carried out in rich velvet crimson. Mrs. Bernard O'Connor and Mrs. Argyle Scott directed the guests in the living room. Mrs. Albert Funk, Mrs. S. Y. Hyde, Jr., Mrs. F. A. Cotton, and Mrs. B. E. McCormick alternated in serving the salad and presiding at the coffee urn. Miss Harriette Ray was in charge of the dining room and the Misses Agnes Jones, Valeria Gausch and Margaret Benson assisted. Ice cream was served in the library by Mrs. J. H. Martin and Miss Alice Pryor, assisted by Miss Gretchen Langenbach, Miss Mary Wing and Miss Katherine Edwards. Invitations were issued to 175 guests.

On Friday also Mrs. James and Mrs. Bannen were charming hostesses, a one o'clock luncheon being given. Two long tables were laid in the dining room with places for twenty guests at each. The rooms were similarly dressed as on the occasion of the reception. Those assisting were the Misses Edith Pryor, Margaret Pryor, Mildred Olson and Mrs. Fred Schepke.

Pretty Bridge Luncheon
MRS. THOMAS THOMPSON was hostess on Friday at the Country club when she entertained in compliment to her house guest, Miss Abil Kootz of Albert Lea. Palms and ferns were brought in use but the color feature was emphasized by roses in shades of pink arranged with baby's breath, vases of them contributing to the beauty of the large room. The table at which the guests were seated was topped by beautiful centerpieces of silver, a large enhanced by the centering with two smaller ones at either side, and further down two others still smaller. Interspersed were pink tapers in silver sticks, the pink roses combined with the glitter of the silver making a charming combination. Each place was marked by a miniature colonial bouquet, adding a stately and "old time" effect to an unusually pretty picture.

THE AUTUMN "birthday" meeting of the Mothers' Circle of the First Presbyterian church on Wednesday afternoon was a delightful and auspicious occasion. In several ways. As is the custom, a special "honor" table is arranged for those having birthdays during the preceding three months. Tea ladies were honor guests. Roses and garden flowers constituted the decorations, not only for these tables, but at various positions around the parlors of the church. The entertaining committee included Mesdames A. A. Barr, E. Cronan, A. Daniel, C. L. Cook and Agnes Eastwood.

As a testimonial to Mrs. L. P. Raley, a member of long standing, who is to leave the city on Monday for her new home in Fulton, Ill., a silver sandwich plate had been purchased by the members and was presented as a "surprise" feature. Later the seventy odd members assembled on the steps of the church for a photograph, a copy of which will also be given Mrs. Raley.

A most interesting feature of the meeting was an outline talk given by Mrs. G. F. Sexaur of her trip abroad this summer, including attendance upon the Passion Play at Oberammergau, and a visit to the Holy Land. She had made careful note of the varied conditions growing out of the war. The utter poverty and weakness manifest in some of the countries like Austria and Syria were overshadowed by signs of returning "normalcy" in Germany.

CORONETS OF HAIR STAGE A COMEBACK FOR LA CROSSE FOLK

Now Flapper's Going to Put it
Up, if She Can Learn to Put Puffs on

All the heroines of the 1906 best sellers, such as George Barr McCutcheon's "Granstark," were coronets of hair that swept around their heads in regal manner and helped show the hero how very feminine the heroines were. The hero never suspected those coronets spent the night on the dressing table.

And now they're coming back. With bobbed hair beginning to die a natural death after surviving several attempts to kill it, false hair is coming into its own.

The La Crosse flapper will be absolutely beyond recognition soon. What with longer skirts, big heels, big hats, dancing earrings, tinkling jangling bracelets and a brand new title—for the flapper of yesterday is the ladybug of today—she is so distinguished that one has to take off the hat and look at the bobbed hair to make sure it is the flapper after all. Now she is going to put up her hair.

"We expect to put in a lot of time teaching the girls how to pin on their puffs and braids so they will not fall upon the floor in the middle of an emphatic gesture," said Mrs. L. E. Seel, who is an expert in the ways and wiles of the coronet.

"Really smart women will not wear bobbed hair at all this season," continued Mrs. Seel, who also knows all about bobbing and marcelling, both long and short. Cascades of curls, wide braids, pompadours, enormous puffs, curls in streams and bunches, will be popular all season. Blessed be the girl who has long hair of her own."

Public Debate

EXPLAINING "PROGRESSIVE"

Editor Tribune.

Dear Sir: A great deal of confusion sometimes exists in the minds of some voters and others as to what the term "progressives" in politics really means. This confusion becomes more confounded when at least two factions arise both of which claim the label of progressivism. The fact of the matter is that there is no need of this confusion. When the issues in the matter are clearly understood, the line between conservatives and progressives can usually be quite clearly and definitely drawn.

It should first of all be kept in mind that when we speak about progressivism in connection with affairs of state, we use the term in a political sense. A person may be progressive in his business and conservative in politics and vice versa. He may even be progressive in the local political affairs and conservative in affairs of state and nation.

What, then, is a progressive, politically speaking? Ever since the foundation of our government the extension of democracy has been a paramount question in state and national politics. Since the civil war, there has been added the closely related question of curbing the power of concentrated wealth. There has always been one group that believed in the extension of democracy and another group that thought we had democracy enough. The former are the progressives, the latter are the conservatives or stalwarts.

It is a matter of undisputed history that our government was founded on the basis of distrust of the masses. The only branch of our national government to be elected by the people was the house of representatives; checks and balances were brought in to effectively counteract the possible hasty actions of the people; voting was a privilege of the few, in some states granted to less than 5 per cent of the people. Today much of this has changed. United States senators are elected by the people and the same is practically true of the president. Suffrage is practically universal extending even to women. Furthermore, in most states we have such democratic measures as the direct primary and the initiative, referendum and recall. The question now again arises "Shall we march forward towards still greater democracy?" The progressives say, "Let's go." The conservatives say, as they always have said, "Let's stop."

Since shortly after the civil war, organized and concentrated wealth has sought to control our industries and our politics as well. In opposition to this there has been fostered various laws favoring labor unions and farmers' unions, laws checking the power of big corporations, laws regarding conservation, income tax, etc. The purpose of these laws has been to increase industrial and political democracy by lessening the power of the autocrats of wealth. Much has been accomplished. It is claimed that still more can be accomplished. What shall we do? Again progressives say, "Let's go." Stalwarts say, "Let's stop."

The proposition is simple. We have continually been moving towards greater political and industrial democracy. Can we stand more democracy? Perhaps we can, perhaps we can't. That is the point for each voter to decide.

DEALERS IN DRUGS DEVISE A NOVEL DELIVERY SYSTEM

Scotland Yard Officials Waging Campaign Against Traffick- ers in Illegal Drugs

LONDON.—Scotland Yard is conducting an intensive campaign against West End drug traffickers whose activities of late are said to have greatly increased. Some of the methods used in delivering drugs to the purchaser are described in a recent report.

"Fourth lamp-post on the right," a trafficker whispers in the ear of a cocaine victim. He passes down the street, and with the aid of chewing gum fixes a little white packet on the fourth lamp-post. The purchaser follows at a short distance and removes the packet.

Another trafficker drops rolled omnibus tickets on the pavement. He is followed by a string of clients who pick up the tickets, which of course contain cocaine.

Another shows an apparently empty match box into the gutter. A minute or so later a customer picks it up and extracts one or more packets of cocaine.

Another trafficker keeps the drug in the turned up ends of his trousers. He attracts his customers where he will walk, and as he goes along he slips to them his hidden treasure. In reality he is passing a packet of cocaine on a dole, where a customer picks it up.

RIVOLI OPENS WEEK WITH MAE MCAVOY
IN APPEALING STORY

Some philosopher once said that the "best entertainment is that which makes you laugh through tears." If this be true, certainly "Through a Glass Window," which will be presented at the Rivoli theatre today only, should be an excellent show.

Little Miss Mae McAvoy wins attention as the plucky little mite who struggles along under the burden of a mother who is going blind and a brother who is just a shade too weak.

And then there's Raymond McKee, who as Tomasso Barillo, an Italian vegetable vendor, sings his way to Jenny's heart. And one mustn't forget the charming little mother, played with poignant, gripping pathos by Fannie Midgely. All in all, it is a heart interest story which stacks up splendidly with such pictures of emotional appeal as "The Miracle Man," "One More American," "Over the Hill" and "The Old Nest."

"Bought and Paid For"—Monday. Two Paramount stars, Agnes Ayres and Jack Holt, who were featured respectively in "The Sheik," "The Call of the North," and "The Lane That Had No Turning," play the two principal roles—those of Robert Stafford and Virginia Blaine—in "Bought and Paid For," the William de Mille production which will be featured at the Rivoli theatre Monday to Wednesday.

The role of Virginia Blaine was created on the stage in George Broadhurst's notable play, from which the picture was adapted, by Julia Dean.

The cast is notable for the ability of the players embraced therein. Walter Hiers, a round, polite comedian, imitably plays "Jimmy."

which was enacted by Frank Cravens in the original stage production. Others are Leah Wyant, George Kuwa and Bernice Frank.

RIVIERA TODAY
Many remarkable settings, picturing Oriental splendor of architecture at its best, were prepared for the Paramount picture "Above the Law," which comes to the Riviera theatre today. Several of the best known screen players of Europe are assembled in the cast.

The palace of the reigning prince is a marvel of architecture and structural finish. Not a single detail needed to make the illusion perfect has been overlooked by Joe May, the producer of the photoplay. The tropical gardens were arranged by expert gardeners, and their beauty and vastness, will amaze every lover of foyers and shrubbery.

The Hall of a Thousand Pillars is a gigantic creation, the pillars being of great dimensions. The great tower, the lighthouse and the score of other sets will impress every spectator by their massiveness, harmony of design and beauty of finish.

ANITA STEWART—MONDAY
The question of dual personality has again been raised, this time in the case of "A Question of Honor," Anita Stewart's latest release, which will be the attraction at the Majestic theatre the first part of next week. In this instance the rumor is unfounded. Not only does Miss Stewart enact all her roles without the aid of a double, but the part is one which calls for only a single starring character.

The part of Anne Wilmot portrayed on the screen varies from a beautiful society debutante to western surroundings in which the girl does riding breeches, leggings and a cowboy hat.

Her characterization of the society girl is said to be marked by a poise that is entirely distinctive from anything she has ever done. Quite by contrast, Miss Stewart's acting of the girl in western surroundings is typified by carefree abandon and initiative, marking one of the most remarkable changes of personality that has ever been given on the screen.

CASINO TODAY
Remembered for her magnificent performance in "Over the Hill," Mary Carr, as the mother and leading figure.

ure around which the plot of "Silver Wings" revolves, adds greatly to her growing popularity. No less successful are her several children, who appear with her in the supporting cast.

"Silver Wings" is one of those photodramas, unusual, to say the least, which moves one to wonder. It is not easily forgotten.

Not only is the photography flawless but Mrs. Carr is supported by an excellent cast and marvelously directed by Jack Ford and Edwin Carrowe. In "Silver Wings" William Fox has left nothing undone to provide screen followers with the best in photoplays.

RIVIERA MONDAY AND TUESDAY
Jaded movie fans may now experience the big thrill! Those who have watched with patience for the great American drama have looked in vain but the super-film has arrived, thanks to William Fox. It is called "Nero," and will be shown at the Riviera theatre next Monday and Tuesday.

The bloody reign of the last of the Caesars is shown in a wonderfully thrilling manner and with historical accuracy. The picture was taken in Rome and vicinity, a few scenes are near Naples and in the Alps. An entire city was built on the outskirts of Rome only to be destroyed by torch.

An idea of the stupendous cost may be gleaned from the fact that in one scene 65,000 people were employed. This one tells a story with a careful fidelity to historical accuracy that grips and holds. One is transported back to the days of bloody tyrants and Roman orgies.

The burning of Rome sweeps the emotions with the same fervor that Nero plucks his lyre during the holocaust. The flames can be seen eating their way while thousands upon thousands of terror-stricken men and women rush pell-mell to safety.

Then there is the storming of the tyrant's citadel by an angry populace. This is the scene where 65,000 people are filmed. It is mob fury at its worst.

FIERY POLA NEGRI
PLAYS TODAY ONLY AT THE MAJESTIC

All the charm and exotic quality which graced her performances in "Passion," "One Arabian Night," "The Red Peacock" and "The Devil's Pawn" have gone into the making of "The Eyes of the Mummy." Pola Negri's latest Paramount picture, which is to be presented at the Majestic theatre today only.

This is the story of a young girl held captive by Radu, a religious fanatic in the heart of the desert, and who, when she escapes from the hypnotic spell of Radu, loves an Englishman with all the energy of her soul. It is this love which almost wrecks her life, but in the end, through a steadfast faith, it brings her to peace and happiness.

The story is claimed to be one of the most unique screened in many months and maintains the interest throughout. It has been interpreted by a perfect cast of players. Emil Jennings, who will be remembered with this star in "Passion" and "All for a Woman," plays opposite Miss Negri in this superb production. The cast is excellent.

BRIDAL TROUBLES FOR MAY
Brides and brides-to-be are frequently regarded with suspicion, if not open hostility by the bridegroom's mother, until they have proved their ability in the culinary line, but probably never has a girl's acceptance by her future mother-in-law depended solely upon her ability to cook corn beef and cabbage.

This crucial test and how she met it marks one of the highest points in the comedy of "A Homespun Vamp," in which Mae McAvoy will be seen at the Majestic the "last half," starting Thursday. Josephine Crowell, impersonating a strong-minded lady blacksmith, is the mother of the girl's suitor, and an uproariously funny scene is developed when the girl rebels and "queers" her own good cooking, causing the horsehead queen to depart in wrath, dragging her love-lorn son with her.

"TELL IT TO THE MARINES"
The body of men called marines, "soldiers and sailors too," were originally enlisted for service on board ship to defend naval officers from the bluejackets, who in those early days were generally men of the lowest class and worst character, who were seized by the press-gang and bound unwillingly to the ships for a term of years.

The expression, "Tell it to the marines," is applied sarcastically to the teller of a more than usually unlikely story but this "narrow" merely from the fact that all sailors thought themselves more shrewd and less easily imposed upon than landlubbers, and the marine was conveniently handy on board ship.

The Easiest Way
"What made you admit the accident was all your fault? You know very well the other man was to blame."

"I know he was, but when he got out of his car I saw he was twice as big as I."—Detroit Free Press.

MAJESTIC VAUDEVILLE

"An Oriental rhapsody," "A unique diversion," "a scenic musical novelty"—are three descriptive phrases applied to "Gold and Sunshine," the feature act on the Majestic bill for Sunday only. The writer knows no more than the reader exactly what is meant thereby, never having seen the act, enough to whet up one's imagination, anyhow.

Oest and Pagan, who head straight to La Crosse from Milwaukee, are also on the Sunday bill at the "Maj." They call their act "come up and jump"—Dear Me! It does seem as if this week's bill has more cryptic stuff in its advance notices, doesn't it? Now what kind of an act could be called "come up and jump." All we know—it ain't an acrobatic act, because there is another acrobatic act on the bill and wise managers like Freise lean to diversified bills. But it's some kind of comedy talking stuff, don't you?

Other acts, Sunday: Anstin and Russell, comedy singing and talking, introducing Italian characters; Ford and Price, "king and queen of the wire"; one other billing not to hand.

Monday vaudeville at the Majestic brings Chick and Tiny Harvey in a surprise comedy act, involving some music; Buks Bros, the "gimme gimme boys," in a clever comedy and novelty stunt; Marx and Cunningham, comedy singing and talking, and Mand Fox's Canines, featuring Dan, the dog with the marvelous mind.

Long List of Grievances
"You say that this man has a grudge against you?" demanded the judge. "Yes, your honor," replied Bill the Beggar. "When I was blind he used to steal the pennies from my cup and when I was a cripple he'd run down the street with my box of pencils." "Anything else?" "Yes, your honor. Once when I was deaf and dumb he shot off a firecracker underneath me."—American Legion Weekly.

STYLE SHOW MAKES BIG HIT WITH THE PATRONS OF RIVOLI

Pruess' Production Popular as Much for Entertainment Features as for Styles

One of the events of the week in entertainment circles has been the fall and winter style show put on at the Rivoli by F. A. Pruess, carefully trained company of dancers, singers and models. That may seem to be a queer way of describing a "home talent" affair, but the fact of the matter, well attested by all who saw the show, is that Mr. Pruess really had "some" production, worthy of description in those terms. More than a showing of styles, it was also a rattling good entertainment for the eye and ear.

Probably most folks liked the dancers best, and among the three who danced most comment perhaps fell to the share of Virginia Kukolsky, because a seven-year-old singing dancer, of her ability is to say the least, unusual. But everybody was highly pleased, as well, by the Italian dance of Miss Lenore Johnson, and the vivid, fiery Spanish dance of Naomi Frances Pruess will be remembered. Keyed into a number with a Spanish song sung by Mrs. Pruess in her best voice and manner, it made the high spot of the program for the show.

Many people also commented upon the grace and poise of the young women who acted as models during the show. All local girls, it was the universal opinion that they carried themselves as well or better than any professional models who have been seen in the city. A typical comment was made by a Winona merchant, visiting the show, who said:

"I put on a style show, too, if I could get models like those. They are as clever and graceful as any professionals I have seen."

"Umph!" replied Sam, solemnly. "Mose, you suddenly is a tholy shifless boy. Me, I done got religion when de fust bomb bust."—American Legion Weekly.

Much interest has been manifested by people in La Crosse and vicinity in the announcement of the return engagement of eight famous Victor artists who will appear in person in a concert and entertainment extraordinary at the La Crosse theatre, Thursday, October 5th. Since their triumphal success a year ago hundreds of people have besieged their sponsors, the Fred Leithold Piano Co., with requests for a return appearance. The entertainment entirely in English is so novel and varied as to delight and please not only persons who like a sort of refined vaudeville but persons of musical taste as well.

The eight members of the Victor party are: Henry Burr, tenor; Albert Campbell, tenor; John Meyer, baritone; Frank Croxton, bass; Monroe Silver, the "Cohen" story teller; Rudy Wiedoeft, saxophonist; Frank Banta, pianist, and the world-famous laugh-provoker, Billy Murray. The Sterling Trio, composed of Campbell, Burr and Meyer, and the Peerless Quartet, composed of Campbell, Burr, Meyer and Croxton, will give several trio and quartet selections. The program for the evening will contain many numbers which these artists have recorded on the Victrola.

Probably the best known of famous American tenors is Henry Burr. While Burr's name is a household word in the majority of musical homes, few people aside from his personal friends know him when they see him, largely because of the fact that he has rarely done concert work outside of New York, having preferred to devote all of his time to studio work and Victrola recording. He is a pupil of John Dennis Mohan, and for some years was soloist of the famous choir of the Church of Incarnation in New York.

The humorous work on the evening's program will be carried by Billy Murray and Monroe Silver, both of whom have won repeated successes. Murray will sing some of the songs which have made him famous, and Silver, probably best known for his "Cohen on the Telephone" stories, will tell many of his Jewish dialect stories and sing some original parodies.

John Meyer and Frank Croxton, the baritones of the party, have made music a life study and each sings solos and duets in addition to taking part in the trio and quartet numbers. Croxton is rated by many American writers as one of the best American concert and oratorio baritones. He has sung with much success with the leading choral clubs and oratorio societies of the country, and has also appeared as special soloist with the Chicago, New York Boston and Philadelphia Symphony orchestras and the New York Philharmonic orchestra.

An added attraction this year will be the Saxophone selections by Rudy Wiedoeft, his mastery of difficult saxophone technique being a revelation to all who hear him. Rudy Wiedoeft is the best known of all players of that most popular musical instrument, the Saxophone. He is the composer of special selections for the Saxophone which are classics in the realms of this kind of music.

Frank Banta, the youngest member of the party, has a hobby for "Jazzing" at the piano and he has received many flattering press notices.

DOLLY QUINN WINS TITLE AS BATTLING NELSON ON STREET

The burning, throbbing question of the day in the La Crosse hinterland, that section bounded by Main, Third, Front and Mt. Vernon streets, is: Can Battling Nelson be defeated in fist encounter? Is there a champion in these parts who can give battle to the doughty Battling and get away with it. A draw and a clean-cut win so far are chalked up to Battling's credit.

The first mix occurred when Dolly Quinn or Dolly Nelson, now known as Battling Nelson and Annie Matalaska clashed in a Third street class A beverage parlor. The row started over what place was being reeled and rattled out by a clanging, clanking automatic piano. Dolly binged Annie in the eye and Annie quit the fight with a mitful of Dolly's hair. Each claim a victory. Spectators say it was a draw.

Last week Mrs. Louie Olson missed her husband, Louie. She couldn't find him around the domicile so she hit the long, winding trail that ended in a saloon on Front street. There was the missing Louie; also Dolly Battling Quinn.

Louie saw Mrs. Louie looming in the doorway. Zing! Louie started a rush that carried himself and the Mrs. through the door and out into the night. Soon Dolly emerged and the entourage started up the street. Soon words began to fly back and forth between Dolly and the Mrs. "I saw you kissing my husband," accused the Mrs. "Ya gotta cut that out."

"I wasn't kissing your husband," retorted Dolly.

"Oh, yes, you was, Dolly Quinn," rejoined the Mrs. "And another thing, I want it distinctly understood," retorted Battling, "is that my name is not Dolly Quinn nor Dolly Nelson but Dolly Smith. I want you to understand that I married Smith."

"Oh, he ain't much," was the next shot from the Mrs. "He's in jail now."

Crack! Battling's mighty right cleft the air. The rush of air blew Louie's hat off. Bang! Zowie! The right smote the Mrs. in the right eye. Puff! It started to swell almost before Battling could disconnect her awful right from the optic of the Mrs. It was a peach—that eye.

For the next few days—much business of conferring with lawyers. No legal action started.

And Battling Dolly has a win and a draw to her credit.

ADVISING A WRITER

I have no means of knowing whether you are patient in the pursuit of this art; but I am inclined to think that you are not, and that you do not discipline yourself enough. When one is impelled to write this or that, one has still to consider: "How much of this will tell for what I mean? How much of it is my own wild emotion and superfluous energy—how much remains that is truly belonging to this ideal character and these ideal circumstances?" It is in this laborious struggle to make this distinction, and in the determination to try it, that the road to the correction of faults lies. Perhaps I may remark, in support of the sincerity with which I write this, that I am impatient and impulsive person myself, but that it has been for many years the constant effort of my life to practice at my desk what I preach to you.—Dickens.

SHUBERT'S UNIT SHOW THE SAME BROADWAY LIKED

Fifty People in "Whirl of New York" Vaudeville Company

"The Whirl of New York" announced as the Shubert Vaudeville unit to be presented at the Saturday Theater on Wednesday Oct. 11, is a vaudeville unit made of the principals of the original show as presented at the Winter Garden, New York, and on the road at regular legitimate prices. During its engagement here, the show will be presented at the regular vaudeville prices that the Shuberts have inaugurated.

"The Whirl of New York" was the outstanding success of the Winter Garden during the spring and summer of 1921 and it was not until the latter part of last season that it became a vaudeville unit after a successful season on the road.

Many of the same principals remain with the vaudeville production, a big aggregation of "names." It represents an outlay of expenditure that, prior to the inauguration of Shubert Vaudeville, had never been made. There are some fifty people engaged and these include a very large band of chorists.

"The Whirl of New York" will be continued to the second half of the program although there are traces of it throughout the first part which, for convenience, is listed in the same way as vaudeville. The variety is plentiful and after an introduction to the principals, a number will be offered by the band chorists. Then, in rapid succession, come specialties by the Purcell Brothers, Kyra, the unique oriental dancer, Florence Schubert, McCormack and Regan, Roy Cummings and Irene Shaw and others.

The scheme is to give a treat to both musical comedy patrons and regular vaudeville goers. In this, it more than succeeded during its brief vaudeville season last spring, being well above the very best of the Shubert Vaudeville unit then offered.

"UNLOVED WIFE"—LA CROSSE

Almost every man believes he might have married a great many women. In his heart of hearts he has an idea that almost every woman who ever smiled upon him, or blinked an interested eyelash at him, would only too gladly have become his wife. And when married, what then? In "The Unloved Wife," the new dramatic success in 3 acts which comes to the La Crosse Theatre, Monday, with matinee for ladies only, Florence Edna May, the authoress, chooses the woman's side of the story. Too long has the finger of scorn been pointed at the hapless weaker sex. But are women the weaker sex? Are they not the stronger sex? What makes a man different after he's married? What causes every married woman, at some time to think she is unloved? A woman is a woman, and really to know her facts and fancies a man must have been married to her. And then—does he know her? Many of these questions are entertainingly answered in the play, "The Unloved Wife."

CHECKING UP

Roy Simpson, negro laborer, was putting in his first day with a construction gang whose foreman was known for getting the maximum amount of labor out of his men. Simpson was helping in the task of moving the right-of-way and all day long he carried heavy timbers and ties until at the close of the day he was completely tired out. Came quitting time, before he went he approached the boss and said:

"Mister, you sure you got me down on the payroll?"

The foreman looked over the list of names he held. "Yes," he said, finally, "here you are—Simpson—Roy Simpson. That's right, isn't it?"

"Yass uh, boss," said the negro, "dass right. I thought maybe you had me down as Samson."—Forbes Magazine.

SIKI, WHO SUNK CARP -- FRANCE'S LOVELIEST -- HARRY LAUDER BACK AGAIN -- A REAL SHEIK

FIFTEEN PROPOSALS A DAY—"Ho, hum! Another proposal!" yawns Mademoiselle Edmonde Guy 15 times daily since she won a prize as being the most beautiful girl in France. The proposals come by telephone, telegraph and mail but all get the same answer.

WORLD'S BIGGEST—If you have trouble with your reading light, just try one like this. It's the biggest in the world—3000 watts. Made by the General Electric company at its lamp works in Cleveland. It will be displayed in Boston.

LEAVING TO FIGHT KEMAL—Britain again looks like World War days as soldiers leave for the Near East to enforce Britain's ultimatum against the Turks. One Tommy kisses his bride farewell as he entrains with his regiment at Southampton.

GIRLS, HERE'S A REAL ONE—Romantic maidens, this is just what you've been looking for. Get him quick! He's a sheik. This wild desert rider is one of the irregulars who attached themselves to the forces of Mustapha Kemal on his victorious march across Asia Minor.

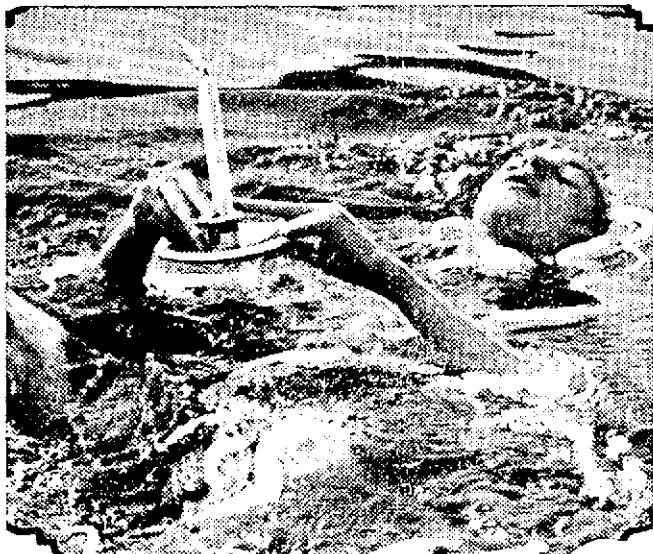

OCH, 'TIS FINE TO HAVE A PICTER TOOK—Sir Harry Lauder, famous Scotch singer, with kilts and long pipe and all laughs as he poses for photographers when he arrives in the United States for what he says is a "farewell" tour.

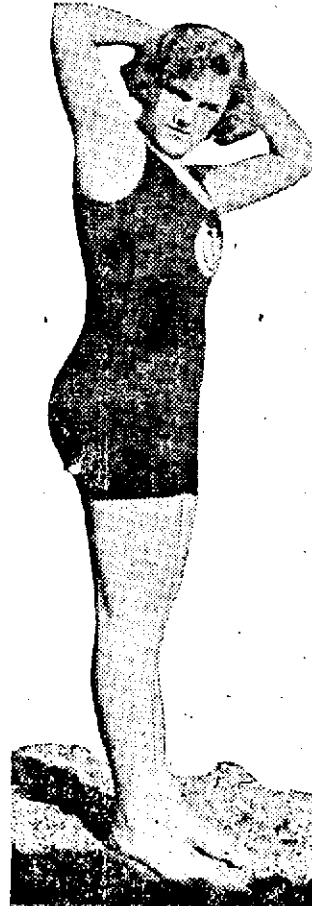

LEAGUE CHIEF—Senor Edwards of Chile, new president of the League of Nations, snapped at the league assembly in Geneva. Picture by Pathe News.

SOME REAL GEISHA GIRLS—You've heard lots about Japan's geisha girl beauties—now take a look at the genuine article. They're preparing bamboo cages filled with small singing birds for a Tokyo festival.

NEW STUNT IN SWIMMING RACES—Hold a candle in your hands and swim on your back—that's the newest thing in stunt racing. Here's one contestant trying it out at Harlesden, England.

LEGION CHAMP—Thelma Darby, 17, Indianapolis, has won the national mile swimming championship at Santa Barbara, Cal. Now she's entered the women's national American Legion championship aquatic meet, to be held at the American Legion convention in New Orleans, Aug. 16-20.

SOMETHING NEW IN EARRINGS—First prize string beans created a furore at the horse show at St. James, Long Island. Miss Anna Horndahl wore them as earrings.

CHURCH IN MOVIE THEATER—Week days a motion picture theater. Sundays a church—that's this little building at East Shore Park, St. Paul suburb. "I see whole rows of familiar faces when I visit the show on week days," says the Rev. John M. Reescher (inset), pastor.

G-R-R-R-R! HOW THAT HURTS!—All dentists courageous enough to relieve this London zoo tigress suffering from toothache, please step forward. Right now she's chewing a mutton bone, which soothes the gums. She's a gift of the Prince of Wales.

112 YEARS OLD—Mrs. Urdang was the belle of a lively party at the Daughter of Israel's Home in New York when some of her girlhood friends celebrated her 112th birthday. None of the guests was younger than 100.

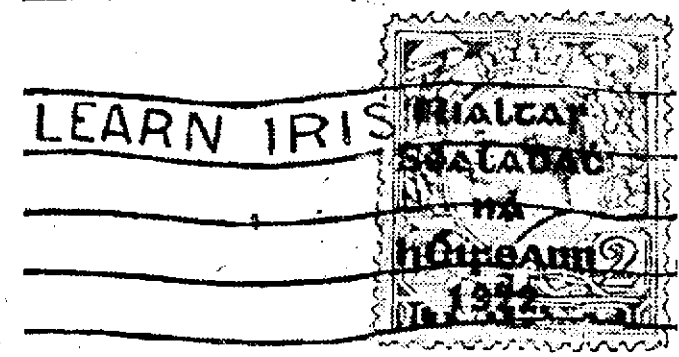

MOVIE TARGETS AID POLICE—Policemen fire at a moving picture projected upon the screen. A light flares for three seconds at the spot hit by the bullet. The marksmen thus see how true their aim is. Above are members of the New York department trying out the new device.

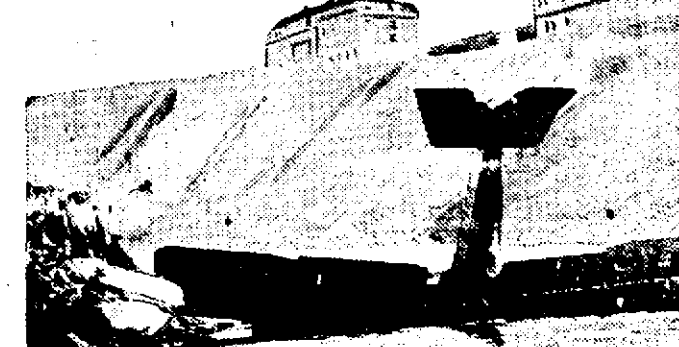

CONQUERS CARP—Siki, Senegalese fighter, after having knocked out Georges Carpentier, Europe's fistic champ, in the sixth round of a Paris bout, now says he'd like to meet Jack Dempsey.

FISHERESS—Who said women couldn't fish? Show him this picture of Miss Sherlie Rude, Seattle, Wash. alongside the Puget Sound salmon she pulled in all by herself.

HOW LETTERS LOOK IN IRELAND—The Irish Free State has been too busy to issue its own stamps so it's using British ones with an inscription in Gaelic stamped on them. These characters originated almost 2000 years ago. Notice that the postmark urges Irishmen to learn the ancient Irish language.

FROM FRYING PAN INTO FIRE—When this plane dived into the Spokane river, near Spokane, Wash., its occupants escaped without a scratch. But they were immediately arrested for violating an ordinance relative to distributing handbills!
